GERMANY'S FACES RHINELAND LOSS

LEAVE CAPITOL UPON ORDER OF STATE TROOPS

Members of House, Barred from Meeting by Government, to Take their Case
Into Court

SESSION CALLED TO IMPEACH GOVERNOR FOR MISUSING POWER

Legislature Dominated by Ku Klux Klan is Charge of Walton

STATE HOUSE, OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—By the Associated Press.—Oklahoma's "rebel" legislators were dispersed by the military at noon Wednesday when they attempted to convene a special session of the lower house to seek the impeachment of Governor J. C. Walton.

There was a momentary pause, armed officers moving through the crowd barked out orders to "leave the building" and without a word the house members began to depart.

Scene Soon Over

Within five minutes the scene of the clash between the soldiers and the military was cleared.

With the atmosphere charged to a fever pitch, Charles S. Brice, speaker pro tem of the house, attempted to call the house members to order. Brice had barely raised his hand and said: "The gentlemen of the house" when Colonel Key stepping up, broke in and in a loud voice called on every one in the crowd to remain motionless.

He then read the order prohibiting the session.

The order follows:

Assemblage Forbidden

"Pursuant to special executive military order, issued by Governor J. C. Walton of Oklahoma and commander-in-chief of military office of said state, addressed to the adjutant general, forbidding the gathering or assembly in a pretended session of any or all members of the Oklahoma legislature at the state house in Oklahoma City at 12 o'clock noon of September 26, 1923, or at any time or place within the state during the present period of unrest, it becomes my duty, by direction of the adjutant-general, to enforce the provisions of the governor's order, now, therefore, I, William S. Key, as military commander of the district of Oklahoma county forbid this attempted meeting and direct that you disperse immediately."

When Colonel Key had completed his reading, D. A. Stovall, of Hugo, representative from Choctaw county, asked the military commander if he "had the full force of the state national guard behind the order," Colonel Key made no reply.

W. E. Disney, representative from Muskogee, then asked if the gathering was being dispersed "as a legislature or as individuals."

"You are being dispersed as a legislature," Colonel Key responded.

Doors Kept Closed

The doors of the house chamber never were opened and throughout the proceeding, none save the military approached nearer the chamber, than the military guard stationed about twenty feet in front of the main entrance.

The house members left the capitol almost in a body for their caucus headquarters at a hotel.

The scene that attended the dispersal was unprecedented.

House members and newspaper men were grouped as closely as possible to the entrance of the chamber, when Brice, from the back of the crowd and across the open court that pierces the rotunda suddenly made an effort to call the session to order.

There was a shuffle as members sought to gain places of vantage. The sharp command of the guard commander to "stand where you are" arrested the movement.

Women and girls who had fringed the crowd about the house entrance were caught in the midst of the floor as the members faced about and all stood silently while the order was read.

Then in groups of twos and threes, the crowd scattered.

Made no Resistance

For a moment the situation took on a threatening aspect. There was determination written on the face of Colonel Key as he issued his command to the legislators to disperse at once. He spoke in a harsh voice that left no doubt as to his determination to carry out the orders of his superiors.

A moment of suspense followed. The crowd seemed taken back at the suddenness of the action and the change in demeanor of the armed men.

GERMANY FACES BIG TASK IN BRINGING RUHR BACK TO NORMAL

Fear France May Profit by Confusion to Push Her Own
Rhineland Plans

BERLIN.—By The Associated Press.—Not the least of the German government's worries come from the Rhineland where the separatists are showing increasing activity. They have proposed a "general directorate" which has convened a grand rally to be held at Düsseldorf Sunday to proclaim a Rhineland republic.

The German press in the Rhineland admits the gravity of the situation and declares this will materially complicate the impending negotiations with France. It gives warning that the strength of the movement must not be underestimated.

Face Huge Task

Now that the action of the German government in terminating passive resistance only awaits formal notification by the Reichstag, the government faces the gigantic task of getting the Ruhr industrial sector back to anything like an approach to normal.

While the recent withdrawal of the orders to the separatists is believed to be sufficient official notification that the resistance has been called off, some of the more pertinent questions asked by political observers concern the manner in which the government hopes to win back its economic freedom in the Ruhr and Rhineland without clashing with the French and Belgians who now control the mines, railways and telegraph. Not less serious in its ramifications is the existing social and labor situation, for the government is immediately confronted with the necessity of inaugurating far-reaching measures not only in food and fuel but also in unemployment pensions.

Fear French Plans

So far the government is without the slightest inkling as to the manner in which the occupying powers will respond to the new situation. Adverse from the occupied areas express apprehension that France is determined to profit by the consternation and confusion by actively attempting to promote her Rhineland plans, especially in the Ruhr.

ILLINOIS RESTORES THE COURT WHERE LINCOLN PLEADED

Woodford County Courthouse
Repaired Under Direction of State Architect

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—By the Associated Press.—Restoration of the old courthouse at Metamora, Woodford county, last remaining building in which Abraham Lincoln pleaded cases in the old circuit days, with Adlai Stevenson and Robert Ingersoll, has just been completed.

E. S. Martin, supervising architect of Illinois, who has been studying historical spots and buildings for years, had general charge of repairing and restoring the structure, which had been changed so much that Lincoln, were he to have seen it, would not have recognized it.

The original lines of the courthouse, according to Mr. Martin, were very good. It was built on the classic models so often found in New England and Virginia—portico of four doric columns surmounted by a tower and belfry.

But the building which was erected in the forties was remodeled in 1870. Two wings were added and the portico removed. The old stairway in the rear of the building had been taken out and an outside stairway constructed where the portico had been.

There was a photograph of the courthouse as it originally appeared, but even the memory of the old settlers failed to tell L. L. Tobias, state superintendent of construction what the first floor plan was. He set out to discover the location himself.

By carefully examining the walls, he found a place where a partition had once been. He tore up a portion of the floor, and found the hole boarded up when the stairs had been removed. What kind of a stairway it was nobody knew. Finally in the basement of a private house, covered with the dust of decades, he found portions of the old banister. From this fragmentary evidence he reconstructed the stairway, as it looked when the legal giants of another age ascended it to the circuit courtroom.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS IN REUNION AT GUAYAMA
SAN JUAN, Porto Rico.—Members of the 4th Ohio Volunteer Infantry organization, who participated in the occupation of Guayama during the Spanish-American war, gathered amid scenes of old-time battle there, recently, on the occasion of the organization's twenty-fifth reunion.

The members believe they are the first veterans ever to stage a reunion in the country where they fought. Former soldiers from all states attended. Col. G. R. Donavin, of Columbus, Ohio, was re-elected president of the organization.

BERLIN'S HOUSING TANGLE
BERLIN.—The housing shortage is responsible for many oddities in Berlin's life, reports a housing commission official writing for a newspaper. One husband, after a scarp with his wife, divorced her and brought home a new mate. Housing officials couldn't give wife number one separate quarters, so now the triumvirate lives together, the two wives observing a state of armed neutrality.

It has been more than a century since gas was used in the United States. The first company was established in Baltimore, Md., in 1816.

Exquisite New Lingerie

It is in her love of exquisite lingerie that a woman shows her truly feminine appreciation of dainty, fragile looking garments. And the glorious displays which are to be found in the shops this fall cannot help but heighten that interest.

The new step in combinations follow the fashion of the frock and are longer waisted than before. They have no fullness above the waistline and while not actually fitted, they are worn plain with no shirring at the top. The only fullness below the waist is introduced by means of narrow pleats on either hip.

A New Bodice

So many women wear silk knickers in winter nowadays, and each one who does, realizes how the camisole and knickers never seem to meet at the waist line, but always leave two hands of elastic about an inch apart. So a novel bodice has been designed to obviate this. This bodice is semi-fitted of double crepe de chine or heavy lace over crepe de chine. As this bodice extends two or three inches below the waist, it completely covers the elastic top of the knickers and gives a smooth fitted line at the waist.

Sashes for Nightgowns

Even the nightgowns have sashes now, to emphasize the low waist line. The nightgown itself is cut on long, straight lines with the fullness concentrated in tiny pleats which fall from the shoulder on either side.

The AUTUMN EXPOSITION

Autumn Coats With Charm

CHARMING indeed are the new Autumn Coats. The wrap-around model, simple but attractive, is most prominent, depending for its individual style on its luxurious fur trimming or elaborate embroidery. The materials are decidedly new and pretty including Gerona, Marvella, Ormadale, Lustrosa, Arabella and Velmar, all of which come in a variety of colors.

Interesting Variety in Autumn Dresses

THE VARIATION of style in Autumn Dresses provide an exceptionally wide range of choice. The Woolen Dresses of Poirer Twill or Charmeen, neatly trimmed with braid or silk yarn embroidery favor the cost-frock style. The Silk Frocks are of a modish appeal with unusual variation in trimming, featuring plaited side drapes, trimmed neck lines, aprons and bead embroidery.

Fancy Gloves for Autumn Wear

A TREND toward the fancy in Gloves is noted for Autumn wear. Two clasp Gloves elaborately embroidered in white, black and colors may be had in fine kid or high grade fabrics.

Autumn Hosiery Is Modest In Design

THE FALL HOSE are less elaborate; the fine quality plain Hose being most popular. Hose with neat French clocks are worn considerably and are very attractive.

New Effect in Corsets

THE new Fall and Winter modes depend for their graceful lines on the Corset. The newest models give the tight, flat, smooth back effect. This effect is best obtained with a Gossard.

Novel Jewelry

BEADS of short length in graduated sizes are popular. These are prettily combined with ear rings and bracelets. Chinese Amber is much in favor for beads and ear rings. Bracelets come in a variety of designs set with sparkling brilliants.

New Ideas in Fall Millinery

RICH colors, gleaming metals and graceful plumage characterize the new Autumn Hats, Bonnets, Turbans and large dressy styles give a pleasing variety from which to choose.

New Autumn Fur Coats

THE Autumn Fur Coats depend for their style on drapes and flare effects. The materials used are Hudson Seal, Bay Seal, Sealine, Raccoon, Opossum, Natural Rat and Coney. The Collars and cuffs are of self material or contrasting fur.

Toss-up

APPARENTLY in a few days the world will know whether the French gamble in the Ruhr has won or lost. On the face of the returns it has won. The German republic has surrendered, yielding without terms on passive resistance; and it has at least tentatively offered a mortgage on German industry to guarantee reparations payments. If that were all that exists in the situation it would be easy to set down a victory and vindication for France. Unfortunately it is not all.

The German republican government, weakened by the impossible existence forced upon it partly by its own foolish policy and partly by French harshness, seems about to collapse with its olive branch in its hand. Communists on one side, monarchists on the other are organizing to wreck it. Between the two it is something of a race to see which will be first to seize the reins—and if either wins it may have to fight the other almost immediately. The republican government, if dispatches are correct, is a shadow, and its promises seem to have little more body than itself. The next few days seem likely to show whether the French victory is emptiness or reality.

The uncertainties of the situation illustrate the desperate nature of the French gamble. Right now it is a toss-up whether Poincare's whole policy is to win or come crashing down, a demonstrated failure. It is difficult to see where there is ground left for compromise. If the republic in Germany pulls through, the French will win. If it is to go under, it is almost inconceivable that France can get a fraction of what she claims as reparations. For it is on the Ruhr and reparations issue that the communists and monarchists are attacking the republic. They appeal to the public against the Stresemann government for surrender of the people's rights, and if either secures power it will be committed in advance against any settlement to which France has forced the republic to agree.

Will communism or a monarchy be more pleasant for France to deal with in Germany, or more promising in the way of reparations? No one can imagine that it will be so. Both are militant, truculent, bitter haters of France. They regard French policy and action since the war as having relieved Germany of all obligations incurred by the defeat and the treaty of peace. That they will be able to withstand French force is doubtful, although if the communists get the reins they will doubtless have more or less open aid and support from Russia. But in either case the French must start the work of forcible collection all over again. It will be a more expensive, probably a more bloody enterprise, than the action hitherto. It may involve devastation which will still further reduce Germany's capacity to pay. It will plunge the French still further into debt, although they now are carrying a mounting deficit that is completely out of reach of French income.

Perhaps the next few days are the most crucial Europe has passed through since the days of the war. Certainly they are desperate days for both France and Germany.

Madmen's Dreams

A POOR ignorant woman, about to be deported to Poland, screams in terror, tears her clothes in anguish and pleads that she be not harmed. This happens when a camera is pointed at her by public authorities in Winnipeg, Canada.

She had never seen a camera. Probably she thought it was a small cannon. There are plenty of people in the remote districts who have never seen an electric street car or even a steam railroad—let alone such devices as radio, flying machines and movies. The world is not as small as coincidence sometimes makes it appear.

The poor old lady's fright at sight of a camera seems curious to us. But if a camera had been exhibited and demonstrated before the eyes of people a few hundred years ago, most of them would have thought they were in the presence of the Evil One. Even as relatively recent a personage as George Washington would probably either have had heart failure, if he could have heard a modern radio, or decided that he was asleep and dreaming wildly. The wildest dreams of one generation are the humdrum of the next.

At times all of us express a wish that we could rend the veil and peer into the future several hundred years. Or come back long after our death. If we could, we'd be apt to consider ourselves insane. Progress would be alarming if it didn't come slowly. It's a mighty wise provision of nature, that we can't read the future. Many of the things that lie ahead and will be humdrum routine in their day would be terrifying to us now.

Lucky Clovers

By JANE OSBORN

"Did you ever feel," said pretty Sally Hawkins at Mrs. Kline's boardinghouse breakfast table on Monday morning, "just as if something extraordinarily nice were going to happen?" She addressed no one in particular. Miss Mapes, school teacher, smiled an unpleasant smile on one side of her face.

Mr. Hodge looked with a grin from between shovelfuls of breakfast and said: "There you go, always getting off some of that hollyanna business. I've often noticed," sighed the indolent widow across from Sally, "that when I had that feeling of exhilaration something equally atrocious happened." But Frank Lawrence, Dr. Lawrence, as the widow always called him, or Prof. Lawrence as he was to Mrs. Kline, who kept the boardinghouse—looked up the table at Sally with a rather long and searching glance as that the widow thought he was looking for the salt, or sugar, or something.

"Can't I pass you something?" she asked.

"No—no, thank you," stammered Frank Lawrence, and then to Sally: "I hope that something as pleasant as you expect will happen."

So Sally started out toward a better residence section, where she served as visiting governess in the home of Mr. Garfield, one of the town's millionaires. To cut off a block or so of her walk she always made a diagonal cut through a vacant lot, a few houses from the boardinghouse. She was walking along thinking of nothing in particular when she let her eyes drop and let her hand drop from the railing of the house—looked up the table at Sally with a rather long and searching glance as that the widow thought he was looking for the salt, or sugar, or something.

She could not leave them. She would not pull them off the plant. If she left them now to return for them later some one else might find them or she herself might not be able to find the exact locality where they grew. She looked about in the vacant lot for something with which to dig. There was a pile of old iron which served in Sally's eyes, and to dig the clover plant from the ground.

Sally's next steps were quick ones back to the boardinghouse. In digging up the clovers Sally had cut her finger with the tip—not seriously but enough so that she had to have a handkerchief closely about it to stay the blood. Then as she was hurrying through the open field she caught her foot on a bit of brush and made an awkward leap in the front of her one and only suit skirt.

She hurried back with the clover. She didn't want it to die and she couldn't take on to the Garfields. Hurrying to her room she set the plant in a jar of water. She had to wait, then changed her suit to the new frock she hadn't intended to wear for many days, and bandaged her cut finger.

Hurriedly she again started out for work gleefully enough. She had found the plant. It was something new and sure was going to happen. And something did happen. Mrs. Garfield, never a pleasant person, was sick for many days. The child with adenoidly enlarged adenoids, indicating her amazement at Sally's goodness.

"It was especially imperative for you to be here on time this morning," said Mrs. Garfield. "I had wished to leave home early, but could not go leaving the children with servants—the other servants."

"But I was delayed," protested Sally, stammering. She could not admit to Mrs. Garfield that she had gone to all that trouble to dig up a little lucky clover plant. "I tore my skirt and my hand," she said, "and had to come back to change." Sally was quite sure that Mrs. Garfield had no plans to leave the house. She knew she had taken this occasion as an excuse to vent a naturally ill-natured disposition.

"So under the circumstances," said Mrs. Garfield, "I'm afraid we'll hardly need your services. I had expected to give you a week's notice, but you have proved yourself so indifferent. Miss Hawkins, that I really see no reason why I should be more considerate to you than you have been to me."

"But the children—!" protested Sally. "They expect me. We get along so well. I am very fond of them and I've started so many things together."

But Mrs. Garfield was obdurate and five minutes later Sally found herself making tracks for her boardinghouse. She had lost her position without notice and without a dollar for compensation for her abrupt dismissal.

The remainder of the morning Sally spent in mending her torn skirt and caring for her finger plant, which she put in a flower pot from Mrs. Kline's back yard. The cut finger made progress rather slow in both these tasks.

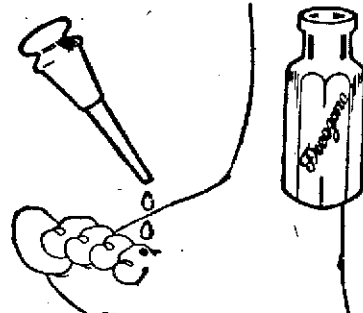

While she was busy with the finger in the garden Mrs. Kline approached her. "You're just the person I wanted to see," she began with a degree of good nature that betted an unpleasant errand. "You know when I let you have that room for twelve dollars a month I did it only for the time. I didn't intend it—that when I had a chance to rent it for more I'd have to do it. I am sure I must have said that. Well, anyway I've had an opportunity to let it go for fifteen. Of course if you feel you can pay that much—otherwise I'm sure I'll be sorry to see you leave, but business is business, isn't it, Miss Hawkins?"

Sally Hawkins said she supposed it was and asked for a day or two to think things over. Probably she ought to tell Mrs. Kline, she reflected, that she had lost her position, and that she would not be able to stay. Still she had to live and she's have to get another position. In the meantime she had about $20 in the world to live on.

That afternoon Sally went the round of the agencies where she hoped to and word of another position as governess, tutor or private school teacher. Likewise she tried for positions in offices, but as she knew nothing of type-writing or shorthand she was unsuccessful. When she boarded a car to go home after her weary searching she passed the conductor a questioning "Sorry, miss," she said, "but this is plugged. I suppose you didn't know it?"

Arrived at the boardinghouse Sally found two letters on the hall table addressed to her. One was from the divorcee who had been her landlady, and the other was from a woman who had been her landlady. Sally read the letter from the divorcee and found it was a letter of introduction to a woman who had been her landlady.

"We regret that the silk has gone to pieces in the dressing," Sally read, "but as you had this work done at your own risk, we assume no responsibility. Regretting that this had occurred and trusting that you will honor us with your patronage in the future." Sally read the letter from the woman who had been her landlady and found it was a letter of introduction to a woman who had been her landlady.

Sally dragged rather weary feet up to her small bedroom. The first thing she saw was that the clover plant which seemed to be thriving in its new surroundings. Really, it was very remarkable. Sally looked at it and counted the leaves. There were twenty-one four-leaved clovers on the plant, four three-leaved clovers and a few with five leaves. Sally wondered if any one ever found a clover plant so extraordinary.

At dinner that night Sally must have shown something of the weariness and discouragement she felt.

"Well, did something extraordinarily nice happen to you today?" asked Mrs. Kline. "You look tired. You know you said you thought something nice was going to happen. Did it?"

"Yes," said Sally, not able to recall anything else of a pleasant nature that had happened that whole day.

"You had good luck?" asked the widow sharply.

"Not yet," said Sally. "There you go again!" said Mrs. Kline. "Always cheerful, isn't you?"

After dinner Sally looked again wistfully at the four-leaved clover plant. It had brought her the worst sort of bad luck all day. She wanted to get rid of it. She wondered whether any one would want it. Then she suddenly thought herself of Frank Lawrence, whose room was on the floor below, and seizing her plant, she sped through the hall to knock at his door.

He opened the door and ushered her into the room, he used as his study, where the table was strewn with books and papers. He was visibly embarrassed by her visit.

"I know you teach botany," said Sally, "and so I thought maybe you'd like to have this plant. It is extraordinary to have so many four-leaved clovers on one plant, isn't it?"

"Most extraordinary," said Dr. Frank Lawrence, not paying the least attention to the clover plant, but looking intently at the pretty girl before him. "Most extraordinary," he repeated, "extraordinary that you should appear when I was thinking so intently of you. I was wondering, Miss Hawkins, in fact, I've often wondered if you'd ever care to go to the theater with me."

Sally said she would be delighted. In fact she wanted to go then—that night.

The next morning Sally appeared at the breakfast table with a smile even more cheering than usual.

"Did you have any good luck?" asked the widow with sarcasm in her tone.

"The best luck in the world," said Sally, looking straight at Frank Lawrence. "And the interesting thing about it," she went on to explain, "is that the good luck that came couldn't possibly have come if I had not found that clover."

And two weeks later the boarders heard the amazing news from Mrs. Lawrence. And the interesting thing about it," she went on to explain, "is that the good luck that came couldn't possibly have come if I had not found that clover."

"To whom?" queried the widow eagerly.

"Why, to each other, of course," said Mrs. Kline. (Copyright, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

BLAINE PLAN FOR REMISSION OF TAXES NOT A NEW IDEA; LAST WAS UNDER M'GOVERN

MADISON. —By the Associated Press.—State mill taxes have in the past been remitted through action of the emergency board, in the same manner proposed by Governor Blaine at the present time, according to records here. Governor Frank McGoovern was the last executive to return some taxes to the counties, while Governor La Follette was shown to have returned funds under his statutory powers.

The statement by Governor Blaine that taxes had filled the state treasury to a point where excess funds to the extent of $1,115,000 could be remitted this year, came several months after Senator Antone Kuckuk, conservative leader, pointed out the rapid rise in the total funds in the state treasury. During the fight on Governor Blaine's general income tax bill proposing to raise $12,000,000 annually, Senator Kuckuk advanced as an argument against the proposal, the fact that already the state government had large accumulations of unexpended funds.

Figures in the office of the secretary of state show that the big jump in accumulated funds occurred between 1921 and 1922. These figures show that on the close of business for the third week in September, 1921, there was $2,755,173 in the general fund, and $4,121,952 in all funds. These funds at the same time in 1921 amounted to $2,619,466 in the general and $5,552,377 in all funds. Then came the big jump to $7,107,582 for the general fund in 1922 and $10,080,593 for all funds on the same date. This had risen to $7,292,407 for the general fund and $10,804,721 for all funds on September 22, 1923.

With these large balances in the state funds, the failure of the legislature to pass appropriation bills for the university and normal schools, relieved the state from normal expenses for capital and maintenance which the secretary of state's office estimates would have amounted to several hundred thousands of dollars. Then returns from state taxes and railroad and utility taxes are expected to be higher this year, giving more of a surplus.

This situation the governor has met by determining to remit some of the state taxes. The fact that total taxes in Wisconsin amount to approximately $117,000,000, it is said by officials to be doubtful whether there will be an appreciable reduction in taxes.

Governor Blaine's claim that he "saved to the people of the state $11,000,000 for the biennium" is supposed here to include $6,000,000 which he asserts was the "saving" caused by the veto of the gasoline tax bill. Other vetoes included the Northern Lakes Park bill, carrying an appropriation of $300,000, and a bill providing for the education of dependent children.

Governor Blaine has not yet given an analysis of his claim that he has saved $11,000,000 to the people for the coming biennium. It is thought that shortly he will discuss the details showing how this claimed saving has been brought about.

PRINCELY JAPANESE FAMILY EXTINGUISHED BY DEATH

TOKIO.—The family most closely related to the imperial clan became extinct with the recent death of Dowager Princess Yasuko Arisugawa. The late princess, who died early in July, was the widow of Admiral Prince Takehito Arisugawa, who enjoyed the most profound trust of the late Emperor Meiji and the advisor of the present emperor when the latter was crown prince. Arisugawa was one of the heroes of the Russo-Japanese war. Their only son died when 15 years of age.

There is a daughter who married into the family of Prince Tokugawa, but in accordance with the provisions of the Imperial House law a princely family becomes extinct when there is no male issue.

JAPAN'S EXPORTS FALL OFF HEAVILY IN SIX MONTHS

TOKIO.—Japan's foreign trade showed a marked decrease for the first six months of the present year compared with the same period last year, the imports still exceeding the exports. The former totalled 1,107,134,000 yen and the latter 714,638,000 yen, or an adverse balance of 392,476,000 yen.

Compared with the previous year the exports decreased by more than 20,000,000 yen while the imports increased by upwards of 2,000,000 yen. The exports to America, largely raw silk, increased by more than 48,000,000 yen, but the imports from America decreased by 113,334,603 yen. The decrease in imports from America was due to the lessened demand here for American wheat, raw cotton, lumber and iron.

MAY USE PLANES IN MINE RESCUE WORK

WASHINGTON.—The adaptability of airplanes as aids to mine rescue work is being tested by the department of the interior near Birmingham, Alabama, where a landing field has been located, and trial flights of ships are being made carrying trained men of the bureau of mines, equipped with oxygen breathing apparatus, to help in imaginary mine disasters.

Other fields are to be located at mining range of Birmingham, the mine rescue station.

The bureau maintains ten railway cars and seven auto trucks equipped for mine-rescue purposes, but it often requires considerable time to send these mobile units to remote mining camps where they are needed in emergencies. It is hoped to demonstrate the value of the air route in supplementing the work of these cars, especially in reaching the camps where fields are available.

PRETTY KNEES? COVER'EM IN WINTER ANYWAY

BY MARION HALE
NEW YORK—No matter how pretty and dimpled and pink little Hildegarde's knees are cover them up with stout, warm stockings during the coming nippy school days. Our climate's too changeable for children to wear socks, warns Dr. M. Alice Asserson in a series of timely admonitions to mothers.

"It's true socks worn by some children in England and France during the winter," she says, "but there the weather's less variable. A child particularly a very little one, should be kept warm from neck to toes."

Dr. Asserson is director of children's work for the New York Tuberculosis Association, which co-operates in the health program of the New York Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Dress children in wool, or silk and wool undergarments or in cotton, if very far south," she advises, "but never put dark woolen dresses on them. Dark wool isn't easily cleaned and too often such dresses are worn unchanged from one season to the next. Dress the child in ginghams and prints that may be washed weekly."

"Many country schools now prohibit woolen frocks. They insist on washable garments. Some schools have for a uniform pleated woolen skirts, with cotton blouses. Health authorities say that the all-cotton frock, suit or uniform is better. In childhood, diseases are more easily contracted, hence the need for the utmost care."

"The wise mother will select gay ginghams and quaint prints for her little girl."

"A little girl's school dress forming the principal feature of a Fifth Avenue window display recently was of red and white check gingham, with a front panel extending from the neck to the hem of the little skirt, and this panel was outlined with a row of simple fresh-water pearl buttons. These buttons are inexpensive strong and washable, making them suitable for the small frock that must go to the tub again and again."

"Dress the child warmly and simply, in clothing that can be kept clean," Dr. Asserson concludes.

Household Suggestions

SOAP ECONOMY

There is a saving on nearly all soaps if you buy them in dozen lots or more, and in a family of any size it is worth while to buy in quantity.

FILE RECIPES

Paste the recipes you clip from papers on cardboard and keep them in a file box instead of keeping them loose in your recipe book or losing them altogether.

SAVES STEPS

A wheel tray on which you can pile all the dirty dishes from the table and take them into the kitchen with one trip is an excellent labor-saving device.

BEST BUTTER ONLY

Any butter used in connection with vegetables should be of the very finest quality, otherwise it is better to rely merely upon salt and pepper for seasoning.

CONTRAST

The short white fur coat of ermine or the less pretentious rabbit, is frequently edged with monkey fur or other black pelt, which sets off its whiteness.

JOHANNA SULLIVAN GUEST OF HONOR AT PRENUPTIAL AFFAIR

IN COMPLIMENT to her sister, Miss Johanna Sullivan, who is soon to be a bride, Mrs. C. R. West was hostess at her home, 317 Copeland Avenue, at a linen shower. The version of the evening was cards, bridge and five-hundred being played. The favors for high scores were awarded to Mrs. Winnifred Willis, Mrs. P. C. Kisselbach and Miss Kathryn Huber. A handsome corsage bouquet of roses designated the place of the bride-elect at the luncheon which was served following the game. The guests entertained were Mesdames Winnifred Willis, P. C. Kisselbach, Mark Kane, W. H. Shaffer, Sarah Scoville, P. B. Drake, Asa Foster, Clarence Whipple, L. B. Sullivan, and the Misses Mary Flynn, Kathryn Huber, Edith Anderson, Tress and Mae McWhites, and Jennie Kucera.

THE HOLMEN Home Makers club will meet on Friday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. Owner Boersma, who will be the hostess of the afternoon. Members are requested to bring scissors, thimbles and small remnants of cotton cloth which will be worked into comfort covers. This is the last meeting before the election of officers.

THE SEWING CIRCLE of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Trainmen will be entertained Thursday afternoon at two o'clock by Mrs. A. C. Taylor and Mrs. L. R. Simonson at the home of the former, 1721 Charles street. All members are urged to be in attendance as this is the first meeting of the fall and business of importance is to be considered.

A HAPPY surprise was given Mrs. R. Graff Saturday evening by a party of friends. It was in the nature of a house warming, she having recently moved to the new residence, 2225 Wood street. The evening was passed in dancing and cards and at midnight a luncheon was served. The impromptu hostess was presented with a linen table cloth. In the group were Messrs. and Mesdames Henry Graff, August Hagen, Arthur Gilbertson, Otto Hagen, Ted Hendrickson, Guy Wells, Ole Graff, Mrs. Fredrikka Hagen, Misses Saly, Mabel and Inga Graff, Mildred, Veneman, Florence Hagen and Messrs. Christ Hanson, Rudolph Graff, Ansel Holley, Emil and Fritz Graff.

La Crosse Girl President of Nurses' Association Opens Meeting Wednesday

The 14th annual convention of the Wisconsin State Nurses' Association opened Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock with the registration of delegates and members.

A business meeting was held at 9 o'clock with Miss Agnes W. Reid of Madison, the state president, presiding. Miss Reid was formerly a well-known La Crosse girl, the daughter of Mrs. Marion Reid, 1510 Vine street.

Miss Reid is a graduate of Cook County hospital and served for two years overseas during the world war. At present Miss Reid is superintendent of the Bradley Memorial hospital at Madison and the head of the University Infirmary. She is visiting at the home of her mother during the convention.

Miss Elizabeth M. Meyers, superintendent of nurses of St. Luke's hospital, St. Paul, gave a very interesting paper on "The Patient, the Responsibility of the Hospital, and the Responsibility of the Training School to Him."

From 12:00 to 2:00 a Round Table luncheon was served to the nurses by the ladies of the Congregational church.

Those in charge of the different Round Tables were Miss Agnes Martin, superintendent of Nurses Health Department of Milwaukee; Miss Dorothy Rood, W. A. T. A., Milwaukee; Miss Anna Thompson, W. A. T. A., Milwaukee; Mrs. Susie Bruce, secretary Social Service Society, La Crosse; Miss Aimee Zillmer, State Board of Health, Madison; Miss Erma Kowalko, superintendent Visiting Nurses' association, Milwaukee; Miss Clara Lewis, school nurse, Eau Claire; Miss Mary Dunwiddie, director Central School of Nursing, Milwaukee.

He will hold a motion day in circuit court next Saturday. $15.00 to $20.00 saved buying your sewing machine at Kathryn's Sewing Machine Shop. No agents, the purchaser gets the benefit that goes to agents. 904 So. 4th St.

GRADUATION OF THE LA CROSSE HOSPITAL HELD

Four Girls in Twenty-fifth Class to Finish at La Crosse Hospital

The twenty-fifth graduation for La Crosse hospital nurses took place Tuesday evening at eight o'clock.

There were four members of the class this year, three of whom were present, Misses Lovey Western, Rouse, Mary May Evans and Delight Elizabeth Evans.

The exercises were opened with a prayer offered by Rev. E. C. Dixon. Miss A. Hansen, a student nurse, sang a delightful song after which Miss Agnes Reid, president of the Nurses association, spoke a few words to the graduates.

Miss Alda Eldridge, the president of the American Nurses association and director of the Bureau of Nursing Education of Wisconsin, talked to the nurses about their responsibilities as teachers and guardians of public health.

Following Miss Eldridge's address Miss Edna Banker, a student nurse, played a piano solo.

Mr. Frank P. Hixon, president of the hospital board, presented the diplomas. After the exercises a reception was held for the nurses, doctors and guests.

When Robert Browning was in his 70th year Oxford and Cambridge presented him with an honorary degree.

KIRKWOOD SHINES IN PROFESSIONAL MEET AT PELHAM

PELHAM MANOR, N. Y.—By The Associated Press.—Standing out from a number of brilliant performances in the second round of the Professional Golfers association championship over the Pelham Country club course on Tuesday was the feat of Joe Kirkwood, the Australian, in overcoming a six hole lead taken by his opponent, the veteran James West of Cedarhurst, N. Y. on the first nine. On the last twenty-seven holes Kirkwood shot the greatest golf of his career, squaring the match on the twenty-eighth with a birdie two and taking the lead with an eagle three on the thirtieth, a crooked hole, 455 yards in length.

All the other leading players won handsily. Gene Sarazen, shooting under par the entire round, defeated D. K. White, 11 up and ten to play. Louie Jim Barnes, three strokes under par from John Cowan, 10 and 8. Robert Craikshank defeated George Underwood, of Butler, Pa., 7 and 5. Walter Hazen trounced Jack Elphick 10 and nine and Willie Ogg, shooting close to the course record, topple Carl Anderson, of Buffalo, 12 and 11.

Kirkwood's game on the first nine was that of the dabbler. Then he found himself, and although he negotiated the second nine in 35, two under par, he could win back only one of the six holes he had lost going out. In the afternoon he continued playing brilliantly, while the game of West, the veteran, fell off. Kirkwood lost one hole on the second nine when, in trying to hurdle a stynde, he knocked in West's ball, giving the veteran a birdie two. He started the second eighteen 5 down. On the first nine he won back four holes and when they went to the tenth he was only one down. His mauling, which came over the tenth hole, ended with inches of the cup and he holed to square the match.

Then the thirteenth, West had a long drive and a good lie, while Kirkwood's tee shot fell between two oak trees, on the edge of the fairway. Kirkwood used a brassie for his second and fell within two feet of the cup. He holed his put for the eagle.

Another eagle was made by Jim Barnes. This came on the 274 yard eighteenth hole. Barnes drove to the green and holed a putt of a yard. Wednesday's round will bring some of the stars together. In the first quarter Craikshank will play Ray Derr and William MacFarlane will meet Jack Stait. In the second quarter Jim Barnes will have Cyril Walker for an opponent and Gene Sarazen will meet Alex Campbell. The Cincinnati veteran, Clarence Mackney and Fred McLeod and Walter Hazen and John Golden are paired in the third quarter, while at the bottom of the draw Kirkwood and Farrell and Geo. McLean and Willie Ogg are paired.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM C. FOX

William C. Fox was born in Augusta County, West Virginia, in the year 1858 and died at his home in the city of La Crosse, Sunday, September 23, after an illness which had confined him to his bed for about six months. He was a Civil War veteran having served in the 14th Regiment West Virginia Volunteer Infantry under command of Col. Jacob Smith.

He was wounded in his hand so that the hand could never be used efficiently afterward. After the war he moved to Iowa where he lived at McGregor for many years. A number of years ago he came with the family to La Crosse where he was well known in G. A. R. circles.

He was a police officer at Oak Grove Cemetery for a time and in that capacity made a large circle of acquaintances.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Tillman Fox of Bunnell, Fla. and an unmarried daughter Alice Fox of West Virginia. There are also eight grand children. The funeral services were held at the house Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. F. C. Dixon officiating. Burial in Oak Grove cemetery.

ADOLPH BOSSHARD

Adolph Boshard, one of the oldest residents of the county, died at his home in the village of Bangor Tuesday, September 25, after an illness of several months. Mr. Boshard was born in the town of Bangor on October 4, 1858, on the farm homesteaded by his father in Dutch Creek valley in 1851. He retired from active farming about twenty-five years ago and has made his home in the village ever since.

Surviving are his widow and six children. Mrs. Amelia Le Mieux and Elmer Boshard of Fairview, Mont., Walter Boshard of Van Hook, N. D., Lucy Boshard, a teacher in the Green Bay high school, John Boshard, a student at the state university, and Helen Boshard of Bangor. The deceased is a brother of Miss Elizabeth Boshard and Mr. Otto Boshard of La Crosse.

The funeral will be held from the residence at Bangor on Friday, September 28, at 2 p. m.

ALICE MULLALLY

The sudden death of Gertrude Alice, eighteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Alice G. Mullally, occurred Friday, September 21, at the family home in Pierre, S. D. Burial was made in the Catholic cemetery at Pierre, beside her grandfather, Mr. Samuel A. Cummings, who passed away in November, 1922.

Surviving are her mother, her three brothers, Edward, aged 17; William, 15, and Roy, 12; her grandmother, Mrs. Samuel A. Cummings, and many relatives and friends. Her father, the late Edward J. Mullally, died eleven years ago. The Cummings family were former residents of La Crosse and have many friends here.

WHO'S WHICH?

One of these smiling gentlemen is Billy Maine, the actor, and the other one is Jimmy Murphy, business manager or something of the La Crosse Normal school football squad, whose home is in Eau Claire. LEAVE CAPITOL UPON ORDER OF STATE TROOPS guardsmen posted around the rotunda.

There was, however, no indication of resistance and within the span of a few seconds the assembly broke up. Not more than 200 persons witnessed the scene.

First Round to Walton

Members of the legislature went from the capitol to their headquarters in a hotel. They were met by about ten of Governor Walton's armed operatives in civilian clothes and informed that there could be no session of the house in the hotel. Several leaders of the movement left immediately for another hotel.

"We have met the enemy and we are temporarily theirs, but the meeting of the legislature has just started," W. D. McBees, leader in the special session call, declared after the attempt to meet at the capitol failed.

More Troops Arrive

An air of tense expectancy pervaded the city early in the day as additional units of the Oklahoma national guard arrived to reinforce the troops already mobilized. Strict censorship of troop movements prevented an accurate count of the military forces, but it was estimated that fully 500 were "in the field."

Despite Governor Walton's order directing the use of all force of arms and men necessary to prevent the meeting, the belief was expressed in well informed quarters that only a very small show of military force would be made in halting the legislators. This opinion gained strength with the issuance by Adjutant General B. H. Markham of an official command to the house members not to try to meet, although there was nothing in the decree itself to indicate what action the troops contemplated.

Early Wednesday sixty members of the house had signed the call and predictions were made that at least a dozen more names would be added before noon. Fifty-four constitutes a majority of the house.

U. S. Keeps Out

A telegraphic appeal by Governor Walton to President Coolidge last night asking that the government prevent the use of the local federal building for the session, brought a quick response from the White House that regulations prohibit the use of government buildings except for United States business. The governor acted to forestall such an attempt after reading a news item in a local publication which quoted Federal Judge John H. Cottrill as saying he saw no reason why his courtroom in the federal building could not be used by difference anyway. The point of the picture is that Maine and Murphy are doubles—same size, same weight, same gait, same smile, same features. One can pass for the other wherever, either is well-known. They're calling Murphy "Usok" now at the normal, that being the moniker used by Maine in one of his comedies shown recently at the Majestic.

the law-makers. The judge categorically denied the statement attributed to him.

A meeting of the house members seeking his impeachment is prohibited by Governor Walton on the ground that a majority of the house are members of the Ku Klux Klan. He has proclaimed the proposed session as an illegal assembly, declaring it would be "dominated and controlled by the Ku Klux Klan."

This the legislators deny, declaring that they are within their rights in calling the meeting in an attempt to "restore constitutional government and end executive despotism." Thirty-five thousand volunteers are ready for service if the present strength of the national guard is insufficient to manage the situation, the governor said.

To Carry No Weapons

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—By The Associated Press.—A statement warning house members not to carry to the capitol building "any weapon even so small as a pen knife," was issued Wednesday morning by W. D. McBees, leader in the special session program to legislators gathering to go to the capitol at noon.

Mr. McBees declared "There must be not the least thing provocative in our attitude."

Mr. McBees said final plans provided for the house members to go to the capitol singly. He said the first meeting place would be on the fourth floor of the building before the doors to the house chamber.

100 Soldiers in Capitol

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—By The Associated Press.—The military occupation of the state capitol building, intended to prevent the scheduled convention of an extra session of the lower house of the state legislature at noon, had been completed at 9:30 o'clock. It was estimated approximately 100 guardsmen were in the building. Every corridor, every outside entrance and all driveways in the immediate vicinity were patrolled.

Every one entering the building was challenged. Attaches assisted guards to identify regular employees and state officials. Newspapermen were required to present credentials signed by Governor J. C. Walton.

Military headquarters had been established on the first floor of the rotunda. The house chamber is on the fourth floor.

Good Place for a Fish to Play

A party of Philadelphians were fishing in the Chesapeake Bay. Some of them were anglers, some were just "fishin'." One of the latter caught a bass and began to reel it in as fast as possible. "Play him! Play him! Let him play!" cried his companions, but the reel was turned faster than ever with the remark: "If he wants to play let him play on the boat."

CALEDONIA ENJOYS 'A DAY OF THRILLS' AT SPORT PROGRAM

CALEDONIA, Minn.—Sunday the Caledonia Fire Department baseball team clashed with the Spring Grove team on the Caledonia Diamond before the largest crowd in the history of the park. About $375.00 was the profit of the afternoon which sum will be turned into the fire truck fund.

The La Crosse horseshoe pitching team and the Spring Grove team played in front of the grandstand shortly after dinner, which contest was won by the latter.

The tug-of-war between the Caledonia Boosters and the Spring Grove Boosters was very interesting. Caledonia winning the first and third pulls. The baseball contest was one of many laughs, thrills and much excitement. Even though the scores were up near the twenties, it was immensely enjoyed by all. The firemen, some of them gray haired grandfathers, played their parts well, making enough errors and taking enough tumbles to keep the crowds in a continual uproar of laughter. Both sides were more interested in the cause than the outcome of the game. The Spring Grove team by bringing their band of entertainers and practically every citizen of the village, took the local boys into camp by a score of 17 to 13. Two of the funniest clowning ever in this section helped to entertain the people.

The Caledonians go to Spring Grove October 1. The entire team and help them to bring home victory.

Some of the local citizens to La Crosse Sunday witness the Nelson-Eau Claire game.

C. P. Bowers transacted business in Spring Grove Monday morning. Mrs. J. P. Bouquet and Mrs. J. A. Heymann returned home Thursday evening from a trip to Rochester.

Reuben Firsch left Tuesday morning for Minneapolis to resume his studies at the university.

Miss Alice Koenig left Thursday for St. Paul where she will attend the Globe Business college.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Elvstrud returned home Friday evening from St. Paul.

Peter Schiltz, Sr., went to Duluth last week being called there by the sudden death of his brother.

The incorporating officers were J. P. Gengler, president; Peter J. Schiltz, vice president; Leonard N. Gengler, secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. Emil Gensmer returned last week from Bay City, Mich.

Dr. and Mrs. P. V. Hommel and children of Elk River, Minn., spent Sunday at the L. K. Lifting home.

F. H. Sture and daughter of Asche left Monday for Minneapolis where the latter will enter the state university.

A large number of Caledonians took in the Inter-State fair at La Crosse last week.

Miss Charlotte Burtenshaw has resumed her studies at the St. Olaf College at Northfield, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Quillen and family of Brantford, Ont., spent Sunday at the Wm. Solberg home.

Nick Olinger of Freeburg attended to business matters Monday evening.

The local fire department will play a game of baseball with a team of players of the neighboring townships next Sunday. This will no doubt prove most interesting contest and the proceeds will be added to the truck fund.

F. W. Wiest and Harry Koenig were to New Tim Saturday where they will attend the state convention of the Roman Catholic Aid society, as delegates of the local society.

Rev. J. F. Lang of Freeburg was a visitor in Caledonia last week.

PROCLAMATION OF A REPUBLIC LOOMS SUNDAY

cially as far as Dusseldorf and Essen are concerned, the moment the Germans proceed to renege themselves.

These fears are based not only on the familiar suspicions, but also on more recent developments such as the attempt to create "a Rhineland currency" and the increasing activities of the separatists.

Appeal to Nation to Help

BERLIN.—By The Associated Press.—President Ebert and Chancellor Stresemann announced in a proclamation today that the German government had been compelled through bitter necessity to end the Ruhr battle. Adherence to passive resistance, said the document, would have brought on the economic collapse of Germany and consequently "would have threatened the livelihood of the German people."

The government appeals to the nation to stand by the republic in present hour "of severest soul-searching and material privation, as only thus can the nation's honor and life be conserved." The proclamation lays emphasis on the statement that under no circumstances can a particle of German territory be conceded to another power.

The nation is assured that the government will do everything possible to obtain restoration of "elementary human rights" for the German nationals evicted from the Ruhr and the Rhineland.

The history of passive resistance is reviewed by the document, which sets forth that 180,000 men, women and children have been driven from their homes and firesides, while many millions no longer have any conception of personal liberty.

"More than one hundred of our fellow citizens have been forced to lay down their lives," it continues, "while hundreds are still languishing in prisons."

Government Orders Paramount

Telegraphic instructions have been sent all government officials and civil service employees directing them to obey only such orders as are decreed by the Central government. If the situation should demand emergency measures these will be decreed by President Ebert.

This official action is regarded as the government's reply to the attempt by the Bavarian railway workers' unions to interfere with the central government's effort to prevent misuse of the federal railways.

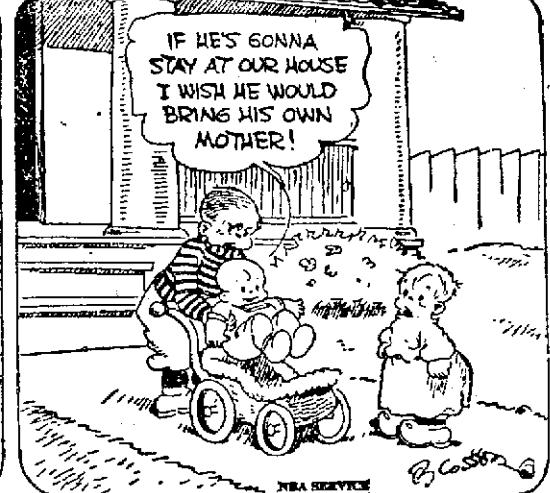

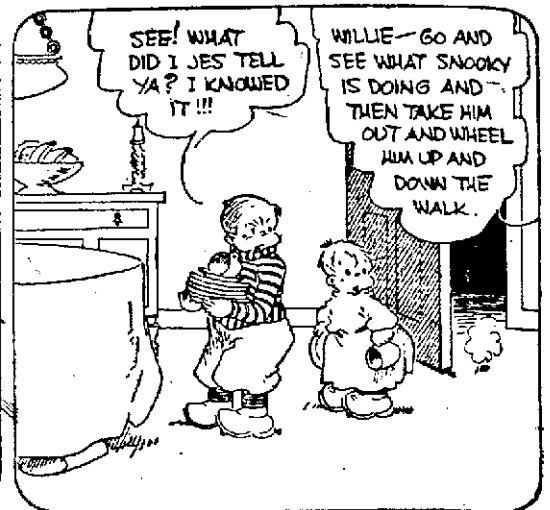

Jew's-harp for Lecture Purposes

The humble Jew's-harp was recently used to illustrate a lecture on "rhythm in song" when it was played by Plunkett Green at Kettle College, Oxford university. This recalls the fact that there was nothing Hebraic about the origin of this musical instrument, for it was formerly known as the "Jaw's-harp," descriptive of the mode of playing it.

JANE STEPHENSON, MISSING WITNESS, NOW IN OSHKOSH

Girl Sought to Testify in Auto Death Visiting Helen Waska's Relatives

Jane Stephenson, missing witness in the inquest into the death of Peter Scarso, who died of injuries received when struck by an automobile driven by Leo Cassidy, has been located. She is now in Oshkosh, visiting relatives of Mrs. Helen D. Waska of this city. Miss Stephenson, who was one of the passengers in the automobile that killed Scarso, disappeared a day or two after the accident. She was the only person in the automobile who was not present at the coroner's inquest held on Wednesday. Mrs. Waska obtained a divorce from her husband in circuit court on Sept. 17. Miss Stephenson probably will remain in Oshkosh for a few days, and might return with her parents who are said to be planning to motor to that city.

School Instruction by Radio

In the education of children radio will soon rival teachers. Experiments were recently undertaken in New York, where a class was taught by radio. The superintendent of schools in that city says radio has proved itself useful in education though it will not supplant class-room teachers.

He referred particularly to group education by radio. Directors of special branches, supervisors and occasional lecturers, he said, could give their instructions from headquarters, which could be received at every school assembly in the locality at the same time.

This amount is claimed to be due the city of La Crosse for taxes on $95,000 worth of machinery which the Winther company bought from the La Crosse Tractor company.

MRS. ELSIE DALY SUES TO OBTAIN LIFE INSURANCE

Widow of Chicago Jack Daly Seeks $2,000 Insurance on Her Husband

Mrs. Elsie (Kate) Daly, now serving a term in state prison for the murder of her husband, Chicago Jack Daly, has started suit in circuit court, through her attorneys, Cowle & Hale, to recover $2,000 in life insurance on Daly from the Old Line Life Insurance company. The complaint states that Daly had a $1,000 life insurance policy and a double indemnity policy for $1,000. The insurance company has not filed any answer to the suit as yet.

NURSES MEETING IN CONVENTION FOR THREE DAYS

Annual Session of State Organization Opens in La Crosse Today

With 100 nurses in attendance, the annual convention of the various state nurses' organizations opened in La Crosse today. Sessions are being held in the First Congregational church. The following organizations are represented at the gathering: Wisconsin State Organization for Nurses, State Nurses, State League and Public Health and Private Duty Nurses.

Following the business session at 9 o'clock this morning which marked the opening of the convention, Miss Elizabeth M. Meyers, superintendent of nurses of St. Luke's hospital, St. Paul, read an interesting paper on "The Patient—The Responsibility of the Hospital and the Responsibility of the Training School to Him."

At noon a round table luncheon was served in the church parlors, followed by talks by several nurses.

YOUTHS WHO STOLE OVERCOAT ARE GIVEN COUNTY JAIL TERMS

Louis E. Jones and Fred Burns, youthful transients, charged with the theft of an overcoat from a clothesline in the rear yard of Emil H. Gundlach's home, were sentenced to the county jail Wednesday by Judge Brindley. Jones was given 15 days and Burns, 35 days. Jones is alleged to have carried the coat after Burns stole it from the line.

AMERICANS FIND DINOSAUR'S EGGS IN FAR MONGOLIA

Fossil Beds Discovered by Expedition are Largest Known to Science

PEKIN.—By The Associated Press.—Dinosaurs—the colossal reptile creatures of a prehistoric era—laid eggs five to six inches long. And they laid nests like any gentle domestic fowl of today.

The early mammalian beasts of Asia and America were kin and roamed across the two continents on the land bridge that joined them in those remote times.

These are some of the discoveries announced by the third Asiatic expedition of the American Museum of Natural History on its return here after five months on the Mongolian plains.

The party was in Peking today with what its members termed the largest find of the remains of prehistoric animals in the history of paleontology. Nine tons of fossils have been collected and will be shipped to America.

One of the leaders of the expedition, Henry Fairfield Osborn, the paleontologist, said the fossil beds found in Mongolia were the largest known to science. For the first time, he explained, explorers had at their disposal terrestrial deposits of enormous extent, still preserved in their pristine grandeur, thus enabling the reconstruction of much of the life in the middle period of the reptilian age.

Dr. Osborn and Roy Chapman Andrews, the naturalist, consider a spectacular feature of their discoveries the twenty-five fossilized dinosaur eggs, which they found in several nests in sedimentary strata among the skeletons of medium sized dinosaurs of a species known as "Protoceratops andrewsi." These are the first dinosaur eggs to be revealed to science, according to members of the expedition, who said that hitherto it had not been known that the dinosaur laid eggs. Two eggs are elliptical five to six inches in length, their shells now covered with a buff colored coating. Their age is estimated at 10,000,000 years.

The explorers brought out seventy-two skulls and complete skeletons of these "terrible lizards," as the two Greek words forming the term "dinosaur" describe them. The dinosaur nests were situated at longitude 102 east latitude 44 north.

The expedition also found numerous remains of mammals, principally of a giant, rhinoceros-like beast, which is said to prove kinship among the earliest fauna of Asia and America.

British Phone Girls Required to Furnish Daily Bulletins to All Subscribers

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—Pity the poor English telephone girls! They are supposed to be able to tell people what the weather will be like. In this, their newest duty, perhaps they will receive a sigh or two of sympathy from the operators of switchboards in America who for many years bore the suffering of having subscribers ring up to ask "What time is it, please?" My clock has stopped.

Not long ago the postoffice, which owns all the telephones in Great Britain, arranged with the air ministry to supply each exchange with daily forecasts of the weather in its vicinity. The first month this information was available to subscribers 10,172 persons called up to find out if it was going to rain. Of course it usually was, the way of British weather being a wet one. In London most of the inquiries were made on Fridays and Saturdays. This was taken to mean that the only time people really care about climate over here is when they are set for an outing. The rest of the time they cannot be bothered, let the fogs fall where they may. Besides it is cheaper not to care. The postoffice is not giving away tips on the weather for the fore fun of it. Those who get such information from "Central" must pay two-pence, the cost of a regular city call.

Hardly anyone troubles to ring up and find out the time. Maybe minutes do not mean so much in this easy-going land as in the supposedly "snappy" United States.

DELICIOUS CRANBERRY JELLY

You can make 10 tumblers of jelly with 2½ pounds of sugar and 8 pounds of Cranberries! Try this recipe:

Cook until soft the desired quantity of cranberries with 1½ pints of water for each two quarts of berries. Strain the juice through a jelly bag. Measure the juice and heat it to the boiling point. Add one cup of sugar for every two cups of juice; stir until the sugar is dissolved; boil briskly for five minutes; skim, and pour into glass tumblers, porcelain or crockery molds.

The most economical of fruits. Prudent housewives will secure cranberries now.

WELCOME TAGS TELL OF TRAFFIC LAW VIOLATIONS

System Answers Tourists' Claim that They Were Ignorant of Violations for Which Fined

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.,—“Welcome to our city” reads the tag Morgantown police attach to automobiles of visitors who violate the city traffic ordinances.

That is what the first tag, a green one, says, but if the offense of incorrect or overtime parking is persistent or the traffic violation a serious one the red tag that summons the local motorist to police court will be used.

The green tag, an answer to the complaint of visiting motorists that they were being fined for breaking ordinances of which they knew nothing, was an idea of the Morgantown chamber of commerce which had the tags printed and gave them to Chief of Police C. W. Smith who distributed them to his patrolmen. It reads:

“The citizens of Morgantown, through its chamber of commerce, bid you welcome to our city.

“If we can render any service or in any way make your visit with us more pleasant, kindly call at the headquarters of our commercial organization.

“By the way, you have violated our city traffic ordinance and we suggest that you call at the chamber of commerce and secure a copy of our traffic regulations.”

PASTOR, WHO PRAISED FIGHT,
CALLS CRITICS HYPOCRITES.
CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—The Rev. Frederick E. Hopkins, in his sermon on Sunday at the First Presbyterian church in Michigan City, Ind., called those who criticized his sermon on Sunday a week ago, praising the Dempsey-Firpo fight, hypocrites. He said he had received hundreds of letters, assailing him for extolling the fight and the elements in characters which the fight exemplified.

“No decent man will excuse gambling, cowardism, or the humbug,” he said. “But the first thing the average man turns to in his newspaper is the sports page. The whole family looks at the Sunday supplement and picks out the girl making the high dive, the athlete vaulting the pole, the tennis champion.

“In the same way they look with interest on the pictures of Jack Dempsey, the winner, and Firpo, the ‘wild bull’ of the pampas.”

To Complete your Costume

By Muriel Mertens

Sometimes it seems as though the whole problem of the smartly dressed woman lay in choosing just the right effective background of a well cut frock. One's personality may be beautifully expressed in smartly tasteful little accessories. And fortunately they are unusually lovely this year.

Ear rings are worn more than ever this season. And they are larger than ever—that sounds possible to you. The only rule seems to be that ear rings of some sort or another you must wear if you would be smart. And the wise woman follows only one guide in choosing her ear rings—becomingness.

And the bracelets! There is nothing unusual in seeing a slender, pretty arm with from ten to twenty of them. And they are so attractive with the sleeveless frocks. Again, as in ear rings, all types are good from the slender flexible bands to huge wide ones. But quite the most popular are the thick rounded circles which are worn in all imaginable colors as well as carved ivory. Quite popular, too, are little tinkling bracelets of gaily colored glass.

For the Hair

It is very seldom, now-a-days that one sees an unornamented coiffure, especially in the evening. For those who find smooth hair, dressed close to the head, becoming, there are stunning Spanish combs. Some are of solid bright colors while others are of shell set with brilliants. But this season one comb, no matter how large, is not considered enough. A pair of them are worn as a rule.

The ever becoming bandeau is still a great favorite. And perhaps one reason for its continued popularity is that it holds the hair just in place during an entire evening of dancing. Gold or silver ribbon, often flower trimmed, is very popular for these bandeaux, but quite as often one sees bandeaux of white or colored crepe de chine to match the frock.

Chains and More Chains

Of course, many and varied are the chains and necklaces of colored stones which are seen this fall. And while the “choker” necklace of large stones worn close about the throat is quite the newest, it has by no means dimmed the popularity of the longer chain which is so attractive with the simple long waisted blouse of today. While the chains and ear rings match and the bracelets harmonize, a truly stunning effect can be gained.

OVERSEAS HIGHWAY TO CUBA PLAN OF CITY OF KEY WEST

Motor Route Under Contemplation at Cost of Million and a half

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—An “Overseas Highway” paralleling the “Overseas Railway” from Key West to the Florida mainland, a distance of approximately 125 miles, is a possibility of the not distant future if plans of Key West civic leaders are carried out. They seek to supplement means of travel to and from the little city which was entirely cut off from the mother state until the Florida East Coast railroad was completed in 1912.

Plans already have progressed to the point of investigating the feasibility of the road, the committee that made the survey pronouncing the matter largely one of finances. A practical highway can be constructed over the distance, except for bridges, the committee reported, for approximately $1,500,000. Recommendation that ferries be used over the stretches of open water until funds are available for bridge building was made.

Unless outside aid is rendered, however, construction of the road may be completed only in sections, owing to Monroe county's inability to bond itself above $500,000. A date early in September is being discussed as the time to vote on a bond issue to begin the work.

The state highway department, at its last quarterly meeting, voted to give the project its assistance to the extent of engineering advice.

MANITOBA SELLS LIQUOR

UNDER GOVERNMENT RULE
WINNIPEG, Man.—Tourists as well as residents of Manitoba will be entitled to obtain permits for purchase of hard liquors which went on sale in this province Tuesday under government supervision.

The government commission will have delivered all purchases to the permit holders at their residences. In the case of tourists, the liquor they buy will be sent to their temporary dwelling places, it was announced. A minimum of one quart and a maximum of one case may be obtained.

NEW YORK TO HEAR NESTOS

BISMARCK, N. D.—Governor R. A. Nestos has accepted an invitation to make an address at the 155th annual banquet of the New York Chamber of Commerce November 15. His topic will be “The Spirit of the Northwest,” giving him an opportunity to present the cause of the Northwest to about 1,000 of the leading business men of the City of New York.

WISCONSIN APPLES COMPETE WITH BEST GROWN IN COUNTRY

STURGEON BAY, Wis.—Apple growers in this section expect to market nearly 200 cars of boxed apples equal to the best grown in the country.

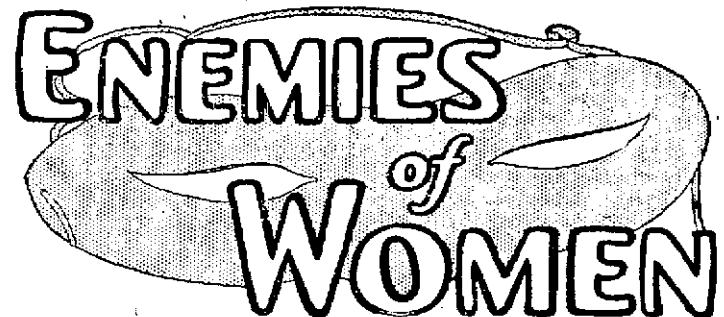

The growers, through their co-operative association, for the first time are marketing their crop graded and boxed like the product of Oregon and New York. Already 60 carloads of the boxed apples have been sent to market.

B. B. Jones, of the state department of markets, has directed the boxing, while an inspector of the department has graded the apples.

BUSINESS MEN FOR CHURCHES

NEW YORK.—Installation of business methods in the Episcopal churches of America is the aim of Lewis B. Franklin, vice president of the Episcopal national council. Mr. Franklin, a prominent New York banker, believes there is no incompatibility between modern business and religion, and he has issued a call for 4,000 volunteers to serve as church business managers. “Business needs more Christianity and Christianity needs more business,” Mr. Franklin explained. “Good management and effective organization in church affairs are the results sought for.”

RAILROAD SURVEY PLANNED TO GIVE FACTS TO PUBLIC

Government Ownership, Rail
Valuation and Freight Rates are to be Discussed

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Definite findings in a survey of what he states are the three most pressing railway questions before the public will be ready to be presented to the people before the time of the presidential conventions next summer, it was announced today by Dr. David Friday, former president of Michigan Agricultural College, director of the research council of the National Transportation Institute.

Dr. Friday declared that government ownership, railway valuation and "watered stock," and freight rates are urgent problems on which the public must be enabled to form decisions within the next nine months. Congress will attack vital railway legislation this winter, he asserted, while government ownership, he believes, is likely to be an issue in the presidential campaign of 1924.

"These railroad questions have been divided by the research council into seven subjects of research," Dr. Friday stated. "Upon them the public is altogether unprepared to judge. It is of the highest importance that a survey, not connected with political agitation, be made in time to provide reliable data for our future railroad program."

The seven subjects for research are: Study of railway rates with reference to amount invested in roads; effects of transportation costs on prices, especially of farm products; distribution of freight rates on the geographical distribution of industry; relative efficiency of private and government owned roads; relation of investment in railroad securities to value of properties; study and review of interstate commerce commission regulation of roads.

"Freight rates and the growth of transportation costs as compared with the general price level are pressing problems," Dr. Friday declared. "The public has a complex problem on the whole subject of watered stock. The amounts involved will be definitely determined and set forth in dollars and cents. The institute will attempt to substitute a clear understanding for a blind prejudice which now exists on a little understood subject."

"As there probably will be no legislative proposals to exclude increase in land values from the interstate commerce commission valuation of railroads, we propose that the council determine what amounts were included for land donated to the roads, and the original cost of these purchased lands. The public then could compare the amounts involved with the increase in value of farm lands and city real estate."

"In addition to these tremendous problems it is my opinion that the country will in the near future be called upon to decide whether our railroads shall continue under private ownership and management or whether we shall have government ownership and operation. It seems not unlikely at this time that the political campaign of 1924 will be fought largely upon this issue."

FIVE ARE INJURED WHEN AUTO HITS SIGNAL POST
FOND DU LAC, Wis.—Five men were seriously injured and a new automobile was wrecked when the machine crashed into a signal tower at the Soo line crossing here.

The men were taken to a nearby farmhouse and given treatment. They refused to reveal their identity, but said they were returning from Lake Necedan, Marinette county.

The license carried had been issued to Henry Puchelt, Whiting, Ind.

SCHOOL UNIFORMS PLANNED
ST. PETER, Minn.—Superintendent R. M. Davis of the St. Peter high school, with the school board, is working out plans whereby every girl attending the public schools will wear uniforms approved by the board and the superintendent. The proposal is being considered by the members of the Parent-Teachers' association.

S. P. OFFICIAL DIES

Few Changes Mark Men's Footwear

By Harold H. Sampson

Generally speaking the styles that men and young men wore in footwear last fall and winter will again be shown this year. While styles underwent radical changes in women's footwear during the last twelve months man apparently is content to have what he has and let well enough alone.

Then, too, manufacturers haven't been confronted with so many angles which make the changing of women's footwear so necessary. The styles of 1922 no doubt went over big and the makers saw no reason for revising the schedule of models.

Oxfords Worn More
One of the most important changes that will be seen through the fall and winter months will be the increased wearing of oxfords. The vogue which originated with Milady is now taking Mr. Man by storm and the result is a large decrease in the sale of high shoes and an equally large increase in the wearing of low shoes.

While it seems as if nature has provided better protection for the supposedly weaker sex in regards to the wearing of low shoes, man hasn't become acclimated as yet. He must wear spats with his oxfords if he wants the maximum winter comfort.

No Unnatural Lasts
The pointed toe and unnatural lasts will not be shown to any degree. This is largely due to the fact that man prefers comfort—particularly the man approaching the mature stage of life.

The younger fellows still cling to the English or custom lasts, but even these afford sufficient toe room for the desired comfort.

The brogue will continue in favor among oxfords, but will also find its prominent place among the high shoes.

Brown again will be the favored color for fall. Black, dull and gun metal finishes will be worn by those who do not care much for the colored shoes.

CHEER LEADERS ARE NOMINATED AT THE NORMAL ASSEMBLY

A pep assembly was held at the La Crosse Normal school yesterday morning at the regular assembly hour. Robert Nohr, Jr., athletic director, and Thomas Murphy, football manager, had charge of the meeting.

Mr. Nohr gave a short talk urging the students to turn out at the games and pep up and talk up the game. The school spirit of every student was challenged and prospects are that there will be students at the game that will yell their heads off.

Nominations and tryouts were held for a cheer leader and assistant. Those who tried out were Joseph Shields, Robert Hodge, Carroll Weigle, Arthur Henderson, Norman Schultz, and Shirley Bugbee. The leader and his assistant will be elected tomorrow.

COL. HANNAN NAMED SECRETARY OF STATE BOARD OF CONTROL

Former Secretary to La Follette is Given Important State Position

MADISON, Wis.—Colonel John J. Hannan, Milwaukee, a former newspaper correspondent and later secretary to Senator La Follette for a number of years has been elected secretary of the state board of control. He will assume his new duties next Monday.

Official announcement of the appointment was made by the state board of control Wednesday morning. Frank A. Crocker, the present secretary, becomes auditor of the state board of control. Prior to the election of Mr. Crocker to this post, several months ago, Mr. Crocker was auditor in the office of the secretary of state. Until Mr. Crocker's election to the secretarial post, this position was held for a quarter of a century by M. J. Tappin.

Colonel Hannan was secretary to Governor La Follette while he served as executive of the state and went with him to Washington, where he served as secretary until about three years ago. Mr. Hannan has for the past three years been secretary of a large deal and shipping corporation in New York city. Before acting as secretary to Governor La Follette he operated a news bureau in Milwaukee, where his father and family lives.

COLORADO RIVER PARTY SAFE, U. S. OFFICIAL SAYS

PEACH SPRINGS, Ariz.—The Colorado river party is safe and will arrive about Oct. 1 at Diamond Creek, Ariz. In the opinion of Roger W. Bidspey, director of the land work of the United States geological survey's expedition to climb the river.

"I see no reason to be stampeded from a strong belief that all is well with the party," he said. "Disaster to the entire party or any member part of it is inconceivable. Accidents to individual members or boats, are, of course, possible, but any calm consideration of the facts must tend to allay the anxiety of those most concerned in the safety of the expedition."

Due to the storm and flood in the canyon country, Mr. Bidspey predicted the survivors would arrive at Diamond Creek about three days later than scheduled.

DEMOCRATS CLAIM VICTORY FOR THEIR CONGRESS CANDIDATE

SPOKANE, Wash.—With eighty-six precincts out of a total of 599 unreported early Wednesday morning, democratic leaders were proclaiming a victory for their candidate, Judge Samuel W. Hill, over State Senator Charles E. Myers, republican, of a plurality of 359 votes. This is the first special congressional election since Mr. Coolidge became president.

NOTED WRITERS' LOVE PACT RESULTS IN MANY SUICIDES

TOKIO.—The recent double suicide of Mr. Arishima, one of Japan's foremost novelists and of Akiko Hatano, a young married woman magazine writer as a result of a love affair and death pact continues to hold the attention of the Japanese public. This is due not merely to the prominence of the pair or to their tragic deaths, for suicides of prominent persons in this country are not unusual.

It is the imitators of the famous couple that are keeping interest alive. Many couples, for the most part obscure, are seeking reflected glory from the main event by imitating the writers' example.

The growth of western philosophy, however, is gradually turning the public against suicide under any circumstances.

JAIL DELIVERY STIRS SOFIA

SOFIA, Bulgaria.—One of the most sensational jail deliveries in the history of Balkan politics came to light here in the announcement by the director of public safety that two prisoners, taken during the seizure of all Stamboulsky's henchmen, had escaped. Director Natcheff said two criminals went to jail where Krum Popoff, former mayor of Sofia, and Stoyan Kabancheff, private secretary to the late Premier Stamboulsky, were prisoners. What appeared to be regular documents were shown and the pair were released, supposedly for examination. All search has failed to locate either the escort or the former prisoners.

What the Younger Generation Will Wear

By Muriel Meritens

To a certain extent, of course, the fashions for children are influenced by the modes which their elders follow. But the day when children simply wore in miniature the fashions of their parents, has now been assigned to the dark ages. And well may any child of today rejoice that her clothes follow fashions evolved for her and that simplicity, comfort and youthful becomingness are the key notes of these fashions.

While their elders are favoring the low waist line, the children's frocks have gone a step further and as a rule have no waist line at all, but hang straight from the shoulder.

The wide pleated bertha collar is so unusually becoming to fresh youthful faces, and is frequently seen—especially on the frocks of softer materials.

Blue serge—ever smart and practical, is very popular for the little girl for school and play while her dressier frocks may be of printed silk or a soft color crepe de chine. Pleats are frequently used for these children's frocks either in the form of pleated collars or trimming frills, or else the whole frock may be pleated. When these younger children's frocks do have a girle, it is generally a soft sash or a braid girle tied loosely about the hips.

When she grows a bit older, the best school fashions for the young miss are sports clothes. A pleated wool skirt striped or checked with a plain high round neck blouse and a sweater is a great favorite with misses ten to sixteen. Her frocks too, follow the simple, straight lines of the sports frocks, with a note of interest added in the narrow belt placed low about her hips.

Printed silk crepe de chine and velvet are very popular for the afternoon frock of the young miss. The pleats and bias bands seen just now are very becoming to her at the age where arms and legs seem to be awkwardly in the way.

mission encourages a big military budget in a nation already half bankrupt and educated her youth in military strategy," he declared.

Age of discretion is the parentage. A ham actor gets caged on.

MEXICAN BISHOP IS SPEAKER AT M. E. MEETING IN INDIANA

Declares Appointment of U. S. Naval Mission to Brazil Threatens Peace in South

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Bishop W. P. Thickfield of Mexico City and Peru speaking at the Northwestern Indiana conference of the Methodist Episcopal church here Wednesday declared that the appointment of the large United States naval mission to Brazil was a far-reaching diplomatic blunder which helped to defeat the aims of the Santiago Pan-American conference and now threatens the peace among South American republics.

"Recent movements for the enlargement of naval and army equipment by republics on the east coast, next to Brazil are startling and ominous," Bishop Thickfield said. He cited negotiations in Argentina and Uruguay, which he said have been the result of the situation in Brazil. The assignment of this naval com-

WORKERS START AFTER FUNDS TO AID THE BLIND

Joseph A. Bell Outlines Aims of this Drive at Kiwanis Club Luncheon

At a special meeting called by Lee Moti, chairman of the local campaign for funds for the erection and equipment of a work shop for the adult blind of this state, final instructions were given.

"Members of these committees who are giving hours of their time in calling on the business men should be met with ready response," said Mr. Moti.

Joseph A. Bell, vice president, who spoke at the luncheon of the Kiwanis club Tuesday noon, outlined the work of the association and was cordially received. He said in part:

"Blindness is a handicap but sympathy is what makes blindness hard to endure. Charity hurts the feeling and pride of any citizen who by force of misfortune is misunderstood by his fellowmen. It is only a chance that these people are asking for. To a blind man work is his pleasure. Work only relieves his mind of his misfortune which he should not be thinking of. He lives through his mind and like the used key it must grow brighter. All his other senses are sharpened and through concentration all other things being equal, he must excel. The interest of the seeing man is diffused by the passing show. The minds that have accomplished most in his world have been those most capable of concentration.

"The blind man's interest in the glitter and show of things is gone. His pleasures and recreations are narrowed down to the product of his brain. His wants physically are few. Money to the blind outside of the actual comforts of life is useless. His great desire is to win the praise of the seeing world, his only ambition to serve mankind and leave a name that his children may honor."

"It is now up to you, fellow citizens, to assist while you are able and are enjoying what these handicapped are deprived of. Make all checks payable to Lee Moti, chairman."

STRING TIED TO NOTE LEADS NEIGHBOR TO SUICIDE'S BODY

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—A neighbor Tuesday morning walked through the open door into the bachelor quarters of Ed Hager, 33 years old, and found a note on the table with a string attached. The note read: "Follow the string and at the end of it you will find me." The neighbor followed the string 200 yards into a wood gulch, where the lifeless body of Hager was hanging from the limb of a tree. Ill health was the cause assigned for the act.

WORK STARTED ON
MOFFATT TUNNEL
THROUGH ROCKIES

Actual Construction Work on Big Bore Through Great
Divide Under Way

DENVER, Col.—By The Associated Press.—With the funds financing the construction of the Moffatt tunnel through the Great Divide delivered to the New York buyers, the actual work on the big bore already has been started. Despite the fact that prospective bidders for the construction work were granted a delay in which to prepare their estimates, work at the tunnel site has not been postponed, according to President William P. Robinson of the tunnel commission.

"The tunnel will be well under way before snow flies," President Robinson said. "Eighty men are employed, about 40 at each portal. The camp is nearing completion; a water system is being installed which will be adequate for all purposes, and a preliminary power plant is being set up. All of these works are to be taken over by the successful bidder, and will have saved him time in his start before winter sets in. After that the work can proceed without hindrance."

Electric power lines will be extended to both portals of the projected tunnel before October 15, instead of November 15 as planned originally, Mr. Robinson said. Duplicate lines which will carry current for 4,000 horsepower are being run so that there will be little likelihood of interruption of work from that source.

ELECTRIC ANGLING
LONDON.—Electric light as an aid to sea angling is being experimented with at Sandown, Isle of Wight. A London merchant resident there takes an accumulator with him in his boat at night and lowers the light into about 24 feet of water near the bait. It attracts some kinds of fish.

LONDON.—A young man out of work told the Scarborough magistrates recently that in order to answer a summons he walked from Manchester, 169 miles. His case was adjourned and his return fare paid out of the poor box.

The Crowning touch of Charm

by Muriel Mortens

A becoming new hat—what a world of fascination there is in just the thought of it for any woman. No matter how old her frock, with a charming new hat which she knows is utterly becoming, a woman is ready and willing to face the world.

Of course, the small hat is a great favorite for winter. The whole effect is so chic when one sees a jaunty little hat poised above a huge fur collar and ready to meet the winter quite undisturbed by blustering winds. And the small hats of this winter offer such a wide selection both in style and material for your most particular choice. The toque, whether it be of velvet or felt or duvetyne, is very popular.

Some of these toques are unbelievably small giving the appearance of a handkerchief bound closely about the head and fastened with a fantastical rhinestone pin. These light little toques are generally seen in a solid color—preferably black, which shows off the gleaming pin to such advantage.

However, if you find it more becoming, you will be quite as much in fashion if you choose a more softly draped velvet toque trimmed with the brightest embroideries.

And More Small Hats
Another, and perhaps even more popular version of the small hat is one with a tiny brim which is sometimes seen turned up a little in front and others turned sharply down like a poke bonnet. If one chooses one of these little hats in felt, it may well achieve great smartness by having a coque feather wending its way down from the brim over the fair wearer's shoulder.

If you choose to have your small hat of velvet or duvetyne, the feather trimming is apt to be more elaborate. Now and then a square crown is seen on the more strictly tailored hat but almost invariably the modish hat has a cone shape or, at any rate, a rounded crown.

The New Colors
The woman who really dresses well is the one who knows the value of having hat, shoes, gloves and frock each a part of a harmonious whole. In fact, that is the main, perhaps the only, secret of smartness. So what ever colors we may say are good, the only way to buy a hat is to choose it with the thought of the frock or frocks with which you intend to wear it, well in mind. And right here lies the value of choosing a becoming color and wearing it in all your frocks throughout the season. Unless your expenditure is unlimited, it is the only way in which you can be quite sure that whatever you wear, all your accessories will be just the thing for it.

However, the most popular colors for fall are on the brown tones. That is, every color from brown, fawn, champagne and tan to the brightest of orange. Black is always good and this fall it is an especial favorite. American Beauty is such a warm becoming shade that it is often chosen by the woman who wears dark furs. The larger hat adds picturesque loveliness to charming afternoon frocks. So if it is becoming, it is well to have at least one of them in your winter wardrobe. The large hats this year have a very short brim in the back. It gives them so much more style and, of course, makes them much more comfortable with the fur scarf or high fur collar.

CO-OPERATIVE DRIVE PROGRESS

HURON, S. D.—With collections coming in in fine shape on old notes and $1,000,000 bond issue being disposed of at a rapid rate, the directors of the Farmers' Co-operative Packing company of Huron felt better than they have in a long time over the prospects of the local plant. There was a large turnout of directors at the meeting of the board and it was decided to go ahead with the collections, get all old accounts and debt cleaned up and be in shape to open the plant when the bond issue is sold.

TRAVELERS PUZZLED BY STRANGE COURSE OF FLORIDA RIVERS

"Now You See it and Now You Don't" of Old Shell Game Applies to Southern Waterways

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — By the Associated Press.—The traveler in West Florida, unfamiliar with the scenery of that section, should prepare himself for some curious freaks of nature. Otherwise he may waste unnecessary time groping for an explanation of the strange behavior of three of the state's rivers. The old "see and shell game" expression, "Now you see it and now you don't," applies to parts of all of them.

A description of these streams has been written by W. A. McRae, commissioner of agriculture, who quotes a young man who has spent his life on the banks of the waterways. The substance of it follows:

The Wacissa rises in "Beautiful Springs," near Thomas City, on the Tallahassee-Southeastern railroad, and flows due south to within three miles of the Aucilla river, where it disappears underground and then reappears in the Aucilla. Logmen have cut a small canal from the point of disappearance to the Aucilla.

The Aucilla rises in Georgia and flows in a southwesterly direction, forming the eastern boundary of Jefferson county, Florida. About three miles south of where the Tallahassee-Southeastern forms a junction with this river, the Aucilla sinks and runs underground in a winding way for possibly 12 miles, rising about three miles north of where the Wacissa comes into it from below the earth.

The course of the river is traced by sink-holes, and it can be seen plainly. As proof of this, an object dropped into the stream where it first sinks is seen to rise and pass through the various sinks to the point 12 miles below where it finally comes to the surface.

The St. Marks, the third of the "sunk rivers," is a few miles to the west of the Wacissa and Aucilla. It also sinks and rises again a short distance away, making Florida's "Natural Bridge." At this point one of the state's hardest battles was fought in the civil war, mostly by old men and cadets from the West Florida Seminary at Tallahassee, on the Confederate side. A monument was erected there in 1925 by funds appropriated by the legislature, and was dedicated Memorial Day, 1922, to the memory of the Confederate soldiers who lost their lives in the fight.

SWEET POTATO SYRUP
IS THE LATEST DELICACY
WASHINGTON.—A table and cooking syrup made from sweet potatoes is the latest addition to the culinary art made by the department of agriculture.

Through experiments conducted at a small plant in Georgia over a period of several years department chemists were able to produce a syrup which, it is said, has possibilities not only for table and cooking purposes, but also in making candies such as taffies, kisses and caramels. The rather dark color might preclude its use in general baking, though it would be valuable in such dark products as ginger snaps and cookies.

The cost of production as determined in the small plant used by the department is 64 cents a gallon, but government chemists believe this figure can be lowered by quantity production.

The dodo owes its extermination to the fact that it was good to eat and could not fly.

WARMER CLOTHES for YOUTHS

By Chas. D. Johnston

Boys are going to be more like their dads this year than ever before that is in the clothing they wear. The little fellows are taking to the Norfolk in great numbers and the older boys of the Norfolk age are steadily turning to the older boys models. It looks very much like a general movement upwards in the matter of dress in accordance with age.

Boys are going to keep warm this year because every maker has stressed warmth and business in his overcoats. There seems to be a tendency toward the lighter colors and plaids. Most of the overcoats have patch pockets. Belts, of course, are found on most every model.

Norfolks Have the Call
Almost every suit worn by the boys of knicker age is a Norfolk. In fact the young fellow almost refuses to wear any but a Norfolk model. Each suit has its distinctive cut or styling. One will have a pleat in the back, one will be belted all around while another will have a half belt.

There are many snappy little changes in pockets, etc. One of the neatest is the envelope pocket. It is on the patch pocket effect but has a flap just like an envelope. Pockets generally are pleated. Coats are mostly three button with stubby lapels.

Changes for Juveniles
Juvenile suits are coming steadily to the front with the Norfolk effect of the older boys. Middy and sailor blouse suits are still being shown extensively and they really are very nice looking and attractive in their unique trimmings.

Knitted one piece suits for the wee little fellows are very popular. Then too, Tommy Tuckers, Etons and Oliver Twists are shown.

There is but little change in the requirements for furnishings. The most noticeable is the strong trend toward the collar attached shirt in all ages. Solid colored shirts will have the predominance. Striped cravats of attractive colors seem to be shown the most.

MONTANA BANK CLOSED
PLENTYWOOD, Mont.—The Sheridan County State bank here has closed for re-organization. The step followed check-up by officers of the state bank examiner's office. The bank was re-opened May, 1922, after having been closed since December, 1920. T. L. Reisker of Eadsden, N. D., is president. No official statement of liabilities and assets has been given.

CELLS TO BECOME SCHOOLS IN NEW EDUCATION PLAN

Idea of Ohio Penitentiary Chaplain Declared Big Step Forward in Prison Work

COLUMBUS, Ohio.—By The Associated Press.—Born in the mind of Chaplain T. O. Reed of the Ohio penitentiary as he watched men brood in their cells during idle times, an idea which those who are fostering it declare has been hailed as "the greatest step forward in prison work in years."

The project has been named the Intra-Wall Correspondence Schools, and its object is to provide means whereby convicts in their cells may obtain an education in whatever they wish.

Chaplain Reed has operated such a school in the Ohio penitentiary for 11 months. The students number 1,600 out of a population of 2,500.

Now, with the aid of Napoleon Hill of New York, publisher of a monthly magazine, Intra-Wall schools are being established in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., and a budget of $1,500,000 has been set to extend the work to every penitentiary in the United States.

According to Mr. Hill, the greatest employers of labor in the United States have endorsed the plan and have assured him that every man turned out by the Intra-Wall school and coached for by its officers will be given a position in the work for which he has fitted himself as soon as prison gates close behind him.

They also have assured him, declared Mr. Hill, that nothing will be made known of the graduate's past life and that he will take his place on equal terms with all other employees.

"What we want to do," said Mr. Hill, "is to meet mentally these men who are shut off from the outside world. We're going to prove to them that they have something to look forward to, then put in their hands the tools with which they can carve out their future."

Wardens and chaplains of penitentiaries in every section of the country have agreed to support the schools, and governors of 45 states have endorsed them. Mr. Hill has agreed to donate $2,500 to each school as it is founded. National headquarters of the system will be established here, with Chaplain Reed as director.

As soon as the Atlanta school is functioning a third will be established in the Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, prison, and after that two states will be taken at a time.

An administration building to cost $100,000 is planned for Columbus.

The method is the same as that of recognized correspondence schools. At the Ohio penitentiary, the lessons have been turned out on a hand press by the prisoners. The idea has taken such hold there, according to Chaplain Reed, that it is not unusual to hear men calling to each other from their cells, "I got 95 in arithmetic today; boy, I beat you."

They'll Never Know You Do Your Own Work by Looking At Your Hands

Your Hands Tell the Story

Rough, ugly hands tell a story to the world. A story of the kitchen, the laundry, the scrub bucket.

Most women do housework. But few want to tell it to every chance acquaintance.

Most laundry soaps contain 25% to 40% water glass. This adulterant, technically known as silicate of soda, is invariably accompanied by an excess of caustic. It is this "filler"—not soap—that ruins hands. Green Arrow is made with the precision of a toilet soap and is pure soap.

Now you can have white and lovely hands regardless of how much kitchen work you do.

For your hands and your clothes sakes, go to your grocer and insist on buying GREEN ARROW.

Now—lovely hands for housewives
A new idea in household soaps
Pure soap!

Do you know that scores of women whose lovely hands you envy do every bit of their own work?

Women have found a better way in dishwashing and household work—a way that is safer for the hands.

It is offered here to you. A household soap as bland as a fine toilet soap. Yet more quickly cleansing than the harshest, old-time laundry soap.

Scrub, wash, clean — yet keep your hands pretty.

A New Idea

3 housewives in 4, before the days of Green Arrow, had ugly hands.

Super-strong household soaps were the reason.

Most contain 25% to 40% water glass — a skin wrecker. Of 28 popular brands of these soaps, 27 under test thus revealed themselves.

Harsh suds and white hands don't go together. So we developed this new idea in soap. A household soap for the woman who does her own work.

And thousands of women thank us for it.

A Few Cents a Month

The cost of using it is but a few cents a month extra. For it goes almost twice as far. Pure soap and unadulterated. And you must figure soap cost by the month, not by the bar.

Obtain today a supply of Green Arrow at your grocer's. Then look at your hands one week from today.

That is all we ask.

Green Arrow Soap comes in two forms — Cake Soap, for general household use — Chips (or flakes) for laundry and fine fabrics. Both offer you unusual advantages.

Fields' Truly "Individual" Autumn Designs

Ever since FIELDS' store was opened in La Crosse—four years ago—it has been our dream to have it known as the store where one may buy the truly "different" apparel so dear to the heart of every woman.

Our dream is fast coming true.

FIELDS', in buying, is continually searching for the distinctive—the unusual designs. That is the reason there is always an indescribable touch about a frock, or gown from FIELDS' which makes it stand out; which makes women admire it, and speak of its wearer as the correctly gowned woman.

All over La Crosse you hear women of discriminating taste say: "By all means go to FIELDS' when you want something different."

And it is well to remember that FIELDS' pricings are never high.

DECLARES SERVICE MORE IMPORTANT THAN RATES ASKED

Utilities Must Give Real Service at Most Reasonable Rates Says Chicago Light Official

FRENCH LICK SPRING, Ind.,—The kind of service rendered by public utility companies now a days is of more importance to the public than the rates they charge, Martin J. Insull, vice-president of the Middle West Utilities Company of Chicago, said here today in an address before the annual convention of the Indiana Electric Light Association and the Great Lakes Division of the National Electric Light Association. This division includes the states of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

"We have got to give service at the most reasonable rates we can," said Mr. Insull. "That is one of our responsibilities and a very serious one. But the kind of service is the big one. When you come right down to consider the utility business in all its aspects and especially from the point of view of financing, it is far better that the public should pay a rate that is a little too high, than a rate that is a little too low."

"A rate that is a little too high results in good earnings for the operating company and it is good earnings that establish credit, and it is credit that enables it to go out and compete with everybody else for the money of the investors when it is required for the further extension of the plants and facilities to serve that very public who will be demanding service."

"If the rate is too low, the earnings of the company are low and it has poor credit and as a result that a hard time to raise money and when it does raise it, has to pay a very high price for it. The cost of that money becomes a part of the rate for service. So from the public's point of view, in my opinion, it is better off if in considering the question of rate it would agree to pay a rate a little too high than a rate a little too low."

"The utility should be in such a position financially that in such a way be ahead of the growth of the community that it serves. It owes that to the community and it is good business from its own point of view because it helps that community to grow and go forward."

Leading the way to Winter Smartness
by Muriel Mertens

After the hot summer months, how welcome the smart darker modes of fall are! And what a relief it is to see them after the riot of summer's colors.

Blue serge is returning once more to the height of fashion. Of course, every American woman will be glad to hear that, for even though blue serge may fall temporarily in the estimation of the smart Parisienne, the well dressed American woman never lets it quite get out of fashion. And wise she is, too, for blue serge is so youthful and trimly becoming; and there are occasions when a blue serge frock seems to be the only thing quite suitable to wear.

Coat Dresses Are Good

And when fashion develops the ever useful coat dress in blue serge, the result is a frock which is perfectly suiting as well as suitable for almost every day time occasion. The silhouette of these street frocks is usually very straight and slender. Sometimes there is no belt or girdle of any sort, but the dress is just fastened at the side front with a small self bow or an elaborate buckle.

Some very attractive models have a pleated flare of printed silk introduced down the skirt where it closes at the side front. This not only gives a very welcome touch of color but it is very practical for comfort in walking. Another new treatment of the coat frock is to have bias bands running straight around the skirt.

Lingerie collars and cuffs have returned to the mode—especially for these coat dresses. On the more tailored models one is very apt to see the severe smartness of a white pique collar and cuff either turned down over the hand to the knuckles or turned back gauntlet fashion. Linen and organdie collars and chemisettes are also worn with smartness. However, collars and cuffs are all made very simple and without elaboration.

And now satin has gained great headway over flat crepe and crepe de chine for the smart, new afternoon frock. And running it a very close second is moire silk.

Looking Back to 1880

The silhouette of the afternoon frock allows itself greater liberties with the fashion and makes no attempt to follow slavishly the straight lines of the coat frock. The long waist and soft straight skirt, which we have worn so becomingly for several seasons, are very good—but to bring them quite up to the moment, pleated or circular ruffles and bias bands must be used to make them a bit more fashionably decorative.

And it is in the use of the ruffles and bands that the mode seems to have a tendency to glance back to the fashions of 1880. One model which follows more closely the mode of 1880 has an extremely long waist heavily embroidered. This waist has buttons down the back and a large bow. The skirt consists of two full pleated ruffles. However, this 1880 movement is, so far, only a tendency.

Pleats Are Good

Pleats and still more pleats are quite the vogue. Frequently one sees a charming frock, which is pleated right from the neck to the hemline. And pleats are found in the ruffles of a frock as well as in the silk insert of a coat frock. In fact, everything that can be pleated, is pleated.

Of course, the long tight sleeve, or the long rather snug bell sleeve is the thing for the tailleur. But for afternoon frocks, the sleeve may be a very short cap or else there is no sleeve at all.

First, last and always, the winter coat is long. No matter what other claims to smartness it may have, if it is not long it is not in the mode. In fact, all the winter coats come right to the ankle so that by no possibility may a dress show beneath them. The long slim silhouette is quite the thing for winter. These coats frequently tie or buckle on the side as

PARIS PAWNSHOP NOW LOANS MONEY ON AUTOMOBILES

Municipal Bureau Rents Parking Space for Cars Left by Patrons

PARIS.—By The Associated Press.—The Paris "Mont-de-Piete" or the municipal pawnshop, as it would be known in the United States, is organized under government statutes containing the obligation "of loaning money on any and all valuable articles, or articles of some monetary value presented thereto."

Some time ago a luxurious limousine drove up to the main entrance, and a dapper youth sauntered out of the machine.

"What will you give on this bus?" he asked one of the employees.

The clerk referred the matter to a superior officer, a consultation took place and finally the owner of the automobile was informed that no loan could be advanced on such collateral. The municipal pawnshop had no place to park it.

The young man lodged a formal complaint with the proper authorities.

The municipal pawnshop has now rented a large plot of ground and announced that they are ready to loan upon automobiles. They have accommodations for one thousand cars.

PRESENT GASOLINE PRICES ABNORMAL DECLARES OFFICIAL

Standard Oil Vice President First Called in State Probe of Petroleum Industry

MADISON, Wis.—Present prices of gasoline are abnormal and have not been caused alone by the ordinary reasons that usually fix the price.

This was the testimony of John D. Clark, Chicago, vice president of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, testifying Tuesday at the state oil price quiz conducted by the state department of markets.

If Wisconsin's gasoline supply came from Whiting or Sugar Creek refineries in Indiana its cost would be lessened a half cent a gallon as against the price of bringing in Wyoming gasoline, Mr. Clark said. About 70 per cent of the gasoline sold in the state comes from Wyoming, he said.

Wyoming gasoline is sold in Wisconsin rather than some that can be brought in cheaper because Wisconsin is the logical field for the Wyoming supply and if it were not used here it would be necessary to close the Wyoming refineries, Mr. Clark said.

Attorney Roe declared that there were a number of different grades of gasoline advertised at all filling stations and requested the number of grades that are manufactured.

The Standard Oil company manufactures practically only one grade but in the winter time sells a special grade to facilitate easier starting of cars in cold weather.

The regular grade of gasoline sold by the Standard Oil company is somewhat higher in grade than the navy standard set during the war and which has since been accepted by refiners throughout the country as standard for motor fuel, he said.

Change in the price of crude oil affects the price of gasoline and all by-products, Mr. Clark said. He declared that about 25 per cent of crude oil could be taken as gasoline in the ordinary process but that by a special process called "cracking" about 25 per cent more gasoline could be obtained. Then he said that about 15 per cent of the whole was kerosene, about four per cent is asphalt, about a half of one per cent is paraffine wax and the rest road oil.

Whether it is cheaper to transport crude oil from the field to the refineries by rail or pipe line, was another subject of inquiry by Attorney Roe. Mr. Clark asserted that there was a slight difference in cost but said that he was unable to give exact figures on the two transportation costs.

The fact that the gasoline used in Wisconsin comes from Wyoming meaning greater expense in bringing it to Wisconsin there is no greater cost to consumers on this account, according to Mr. Clark's statement.

He said that through the Wisconsin gasoline was shipped from Wyoming, freight rates were computed from Whiting, Ind. This, he said, had been the practice for some time and had not been changed.

Changes this year from the flooding of the market with crude oil were told by Mr. Clark. This cause is responsible for the present price range, he said, with national production increasing from 1,500,000 barrels a day last year to 2,225,000 barrels a day this year. Besides the increase in production, he declared, that this year's crude oil is of a better grade.

SEEK TO ESTABLISH IDEAL UNIVERSITY IN HONOR OF LINCOLN

Plans Contemplate University for Everybody, Rich and Poor, Always Open

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—A university for everybody, rich and poor, open day and night seven days a week, this is the ideal before the incorporators of the Abraham Lincoln university now being founded by the citizens of Lincoln's home town.

At meetings already held to further the plan of a national university for everybody, labor leaders and capitalists sat side by side. Among the men aiding in fostering the Lincoln university are former Senator Lawrence V. Sherman, republican national committeeman for Illinois; John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, Jewish rabbi, Protestant ministers and Catholic priests.

A fund of $100,000 is to be raised this year according to Dr. F. H. Hager, chairman of the university committee, and it is planned to open the new institution in September, 1924. The plan of the university will be Lincoln's ideal. Senator Sherman said, and his founders hope to make it a self-help institution where anybody who wants to learn, regardless of his bank account, can study night and day and Sunday, if he cannot come at other times.

"In the classroom there is to be no least search for truth," he declared. "The final word has not yet been said in science, politics and economics. A reader may dispute against existing institutions as much as to those, provided only that he does not advocate reform by bloodshed and other forms of violence."

"When the country is at peace there is no part of our system which will not be the better for an exchange of ideas and free criticism freely and speedily given. We want to instill individuality of thought and personality in the students."

An example of the interpretation of Lincolnian ideals by his fellow townsmen was evidenced at one of the meetings, attended by 200 citizens, when someone proposed that the policy of the new university be to support the government against "its enemies." The meeting promptly vetoed a proposal so phrased.

"The form of our present government is not the best," Dr. Hager replied. "The American political institution must be elastic. We do not want to stand firmly for things as they are and deny the need of progress."

When the question of calling the institution a Christian university came up, some non-Christians on the committee objected. The policy finally adopted was to make the university Christian in the ethical sense, for the school itself will be strictly non-denominational, the committee has promised.

"The ultimate hope of the founders is to make Abraham Lincoln university a national university, according to Dr. Hager, but for the present the project and the finances of the proposed school will be furthered and supported by Springfield citizens."

SEVEN WARSHIPS AWAIT JUNKING AT PHILLY YARDS

Two Cruisers and Five Battleships to be Scrapped Under Arms Pact

PHILADELPHIA—Seven war vessels at the Philadelphia Navy Yard are to be scrapped under the provisions of the Treaty for the Limitation of Armaments, recently approved. They include two cruisers and five battleships.

The cruisers are the Constitution and the United States, which had been under construction at the navy yard for some time. They are to be scrapped at once, acetylene torches being used to put them to pieces. A little later workmen will start on the five battle ships consigned to the international junk heap. Four of them, the Minnesota, South Carolina, Michigan and New Hampshire, are out of commission and have been lying in the storage basin at the navy yards for months. The fifth, the South Carolina, will have a fitting end to a long career, for she will be taken to sea and sunk in tests of various deck and under-water attacking methods lately devised by the Navy Department engineers.

An eighth battleship, the Washington, which was under construction at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation's yards in Camden, N. J., also will be shattered by the gunfire and torpedo attack of the Atlantic fleet.

MADISON, Wis.—By the Associated Press.—With the Madison supply of artesian water running short of city needs, the water board has recommended that Lake Mendota be utilized to supply added needs. Recently the Dane county medical society went on record as opposed to the utilization of lake water.

The city water board points out that difficulties of obtaining artesian well water are increasing with the growth of the city, raising the cost and endangering property and lives by the inadequacy of emergency supply during fires.

Residents object to use of lake water because of fear that it may be impure.

BRIDE OF 5 DAYS HELD IN DEATH OF HER HUSBAND

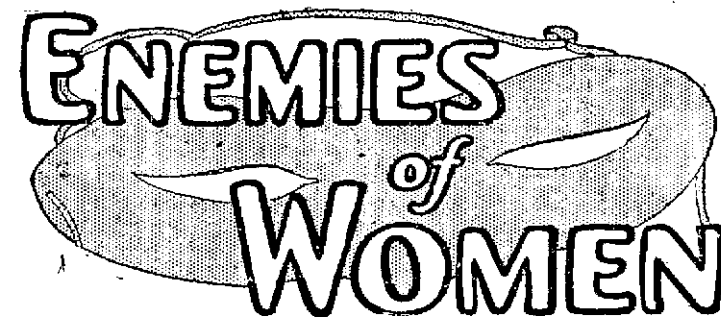

CHICAGO.—By the Associated Press.—Mrs. Frank A. Vallia, a bride of three days, was held by the police on Monday while they investigated the mysterious killing of her husband, whose body, pierced by six bullets, was found in an alley late on Sunday near their home. A search was begun for Peter Caterina, her brother, when the police were told her family had objected to her marriage.

CHIPPEWA SUGAR FACTORY TO OPEN ON OCTOBER 15

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis.—The big sugar beet factory of the Chippewa Sugar Refining company here will begin operations this year on or about Oct. 15, and will run three months, which will be the longest run in the history of the plant. Three hundred persons will be employed.

working on two shifts of twelve hours each. The acreage this season was 3,500 and this is expected to produce about 700 car loads. The output at the present prices is expected to bring about $600,000.

This Little Frock
Pretends to Be a
Button-On Affair

KIDDIES love buttons, just pepper the new frock with them and you will be sure to warm your kiddie's heart. Now here is a little frock which gives an excuse for an extensive use of buttons. It is made in two parts, with the skirt continuing the lines of the frock, but jutting up in front to look as if it were buttoned on instead of stitched. That neckline with its buttons on the shoulders is something different for the kiddie's frock.

Linen would work up well over this pattern, also a wash crepe de chine. Make the buttons tell their story by using novelty buttons or having them covered with the silk and then just lightly embroidered with French knots or lazy-daisy stitch.

SAVING THE BROOM

IN order to save the broom and prevent it from wearing unevenly, draw over it the leg of a stocking from which the foot has been cut, placing the stocking top at the bottom of the broom and drawing the opposite end about the apex. Fasten securely with string. The stocking will fit tight about the broom. This prevents the straws from spreading in sweeping. It also keeps the straws of the unexposed part of the broom clean and fresh, so that as it wears, the portion remaining is as good as new. Economy of this kind will double the service that the ordinary broom gives.

For darns, unmanageably big, use little squares of black net as a foundation, then run the darning silk through this until the hole is filled. Use a fine net so that the darn will not be bulky.

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A SCREEN

BESIDES being ever so decorative a thing, the screen is a most convenient and useful bit of furniture. No one can deny the utility of the fireside screen. Nor can any one gainsay the convenience of the dining room screen, particularly when dining room and living room are one and inseparable. However, every one is familiar with the sorry sights that choose to call themselves screens in many a family; as a rule they are vastly more pathetic than the thing which they try to conceal. Doubtless you are intimately acquainted with a once beautiful Chinese screen, one of those silk and ebony things generously treated to a great deal of gold embroidery. But time and abuse have robbed it of much of its joy.

But there is really no reason under the sun why that selfsame screen shouldn't be capable of gratifying rejuvenation at the hands of some clever person. The first step consists in giving the frame a cleansing and rubbing up. If it be a cheap wood, then there is nothing more improving than a coat of paint plus a coat of varnish. This you may choose with an eye to the rest of your decorative scheme. As for the fabric end of the screen, it would be sheer folly for the amateur to attempt inserting new. The simpler way is to make use of "camouflage" here and there. Of course, if a loose thread or two is the only sign of wear in a screen, then any needlewoman can remedy that. But if the screen is actually holey or universally threadbare, applique of all sorts are suggested. Perfectly stunning ones can be cut from a cretonne pattern and applied with plain ordinary flour and water paste.

Or you might avail yourself of the fascinating Japanese paper to be found in any of the shops. This, too, is put on a la paper hanging, and is immensely effective, too. There are charming silver and gold papers to be had which if cut into grotesque shapes or in conventionalized motifs and appliqued will mean a whole new life for the most dilapidated of screens. Try it.

Before washing a dark dress, look it over carefully, mark all spots with white crosses. In this way you will be able to find the places that need special attention.

This Scarf-End Is Worked in a Novel Flat Rose Design

(COURTESY PHILADELPHIA RECORD)

HOW TO USE THE SCARF DESIGN

Here is something different in a rose design for the end of a table or buffet scarf.

Use linen, Indian Head muslin, or crash as the foundation of the scarf. Cut out the design carefully, and placing it over a sheet of a carbon paper, transfer the pattern to the cloth. It is a good plan to tack the pattern and carbon paper in place with a few large stitches to prevent slipping.

The design is worked, as the picture shows, in a combination of braiding and embroidery. White coronation braid, with blue or rose thread for the embroidery in the flower part and green in the leaves make an attractive combination if white or linen-colored material is used.

The scarf may be made unusually effective, however, if rose or delft blue linen is used as a foundation. Then the flower may be worked either in white or in the color to match the linen, using thread of a slightly darker shade than the material. In the blue linen, the leaves and stem even may be worked in blue, using a very dark shade of blue, darker than the flowers.

Wee Sons Dress as Smartly as Their Sisters

THE time was when we used to hear mothers say: "I'm so glad Marjorie or Betty or Helene wasn't a boy. You can always dress a girl so much more charmingly." Which is an idea as passe as the remark. Our small gentlemen of today are turned out quite as attractively and certainly as smartly as their frilly wee sisters.

They do not occupy the center of the fashion magazines, to be sure. But they are by no means neglected in the smart shops, and a tour of these will show you many intriguing masculine garments on display for the ages between one and nine or ten years.

After this, and frequently before, he looks with a truly grown-up disfavor upon anything inclined to be in the least gay or "different," and allows only the tweeds and handsome blue serges which other boys did, and now that it is more reasonable of his age are wearing. One wonders if it be possible for any mother to look upon her son in a trim suit of blue serge, with full knickers fitting the round collar, fitting snugly up so jauntily about the knee, and a round white collar under his manly little face, and not feel a thrill of utmost pride. Tweed suits, too, are very good looking for boys of this age, and may be had for as young as seven years. Between these, and the time when he discards his baby dresses at the age of six months and takes up creepers and rompers which are just as feminine, there comes a fascinating number of the debonair Oliver Twist and similar suits.

First Small Suit.

For the first small suit after rompers are a-thing of the past, poplin and galatea are excellent. And is a favorite color, since it is seemingly universally becoming. Tan with brown trimmings, and the reverse, are delightful when they can be worn; and clear shades of green are much used. Linen is always splendid, and now that it is more reasonably priced, it is going into the making of many inviting suits.

Almost without exception there is the round collar, fitting snugly up under the chin. On the serges and tweeds of the older boy it is of stiffly starched linen, in the type which is sometimes called the Eton. And with it is worn a soft tie. For the wash suits the collars are in contrasting shades of self material, or of white in pique, linen, poplin or muslin. Tiny knife pleatings, which edge the collar and turned-back cuffs, and often the front, do not give the garment anything of a frivolous appearance, but, on the contrary, they are more effective.

Ruffles of Organdie.

On a number of suits I have recently noticed a gathered white ruffle of organdie used in this way on the colored collar and cuffs. Either ruffles or knife pleatings are seen on the smart suits for special occasions, which are of serge trousers topped by white satin blouse. The trousers, which are straight little affairs, ending at the knee, may be of white serge, or of blue. A more serviceable model tops navy serge trousers with a blouse of pongee and buttons them together through square tabs on either side. Buttons, you know, play a most important part in the youthful masculine wardrobe. White suits, which are always stunning, may show no touch of color except the buttons. Many of the brief trousers have buttons at the outer seams. And some of the striped galateas and jeans suits which are shown for the 8-year-old particularly are seemingly all buttons.

And we really mustn't overlook the possibilities of the sailor suit. Some of them are very commonplace, to be sure. But others are lovely. One model is all white with a separate blouse coming down over the straight trousers. Another is of blue in that especially delightful shade called delft, and is fashioned after the Oliver Twist model.

Practically the only departure from these fashionable types is found in an imported affair of pongee, which features a Norfolk blouse over the straight trousers. This is most unusual, and has the sanction of a very well-known house. The Norfolk model, handsome for the older boy, is seldom seen in the younger suit, but in this instance they may be had for a boy of 4. The belt is fastened by a pearl buckle.

You can get so much distinction in a youthful suit of pongee. It launders beautifully and when used for the entire suit or in combination with serge or linen is stunning. And it apparently knows no age limit. Even father has his shirts made of it, which is something the young man will like to remember.

Wholesome Dishes for the Family Dinner

Baked Cabbage.

Boil cabbage leaves until soft in salt water. Drain, put a layer of cabbage, bread crumbs, grated cheese, dots of butter into a buttered pan; repeat until dish is full. Bake in hot oven. Mix through once or twice so the bottom leaves will be browned, too, and bake until slightly brown and cheese is melted. Very good with fried fish, or baked fish of any kind.

Brown Fricassee of Lamb.

Cut two or more pounds of lamb from the neck and thick part of loin; cut in small pieces as for stew; fry a slice of salt pork in the pot (iron pot, if you have it); put lamb in, browning on all sides, then cover with a pint of white stock, transfer to an agate pot.

Fry brown a tablespoon each of carrot and onion cut into dice; add lamb and let simmer in the brown gravy, cover tightly and every 20 minutes either dip the gravy over the lamb or shake the pot. It should be done in two hours. Have hot, well-seasoned mashed potatoes, making a border around the platter, meat in center; thicken gravy and strain over the lamb. A good dish.

Creamed Tuna Fish.

One cup evaporated milk, diluted with one and a half cups boiling water, two tablespoons butter, one lb. canned tuna fish, flaked fine, two tablespoons minced green peppers, one tablespoon minced pimientos, three-fourths teaspoon salt, boiled rice, paprika, three tablespoons flour.

Heat the butter and add the green peppers, cooking them in it until softened—about five minutes. Then add the pimientos, and the flour. Cook very slowly for three minutes, and gradually add the evaporated milk, diluted with the water. Then turn in the salt and paprika and add the tuna fish. Let come to a boil and cook over hot water for at least 15 minutes. Serve in a border of boiled rice.

Corn Oysters.

Two pints grated corn, (canned corn may be used), two cups milk, three eggs, salt and pepper, enough flour to thicken. Put a tablespoon of butter in frying pan, and drop the batter, one spoonful at a time and brown on both sides. Serve hot.

Hamburg and Spaghetti.

One pound hamburger steak, one can tomato soup, half a package spaghetti, butter, pepper and salt. Cook hamburger in stew pan with a little water until browned. Cook spaghetti until well done and season. Add in alternate layers in a buttered baking dish and pour a can of tomato soup, which has been diluted a little, over the whole. Cook in oven about 15 minutes, then remove cover and brown.

Mixed Vegetable Salad.

One tablespoon sliced onion, one tablespoon sliced celery, one tablespoon sliced radishes, two hard-boiled eggs (sliced), one head lettuce, one tomato (sliced), parsley. Line salad bowl with leaves of head lettuce; then add the onion, celery, radishes; then pour mayonnaise dressing over this and garnish with the sliced tomato, parsley and sliced hard-boiled eggs.

Fruit Salad Dressing.

Boil half a cup each of lemon, orange and pineapple juice, thicken with one beaten egg in which is

CHOSEN FOR THEIR BEAUTY

To the left—Sweet sixteen and the prettiest bobbed hair beauty in Southeastern Florida is Miss Evelyn Buehlman, of Miami, Florida.

To the right—Lady Lisburne, wife of Earl Lisburne, formerly Regina, daughter of Don Julio de Bettincourt, attache to the Chilean Legation, in London, who is considered the most beautiful woman in Chile.

A famous English artist-photographer has selected her as one of the most beautiful women in the world.

A dainty centerpiece adds zest to any meal, and is well worth a little extra trouble, even if the dinner is only a family affair. Here is an interesting arrangement of candles and foliage that can be quickly and easily prepared.

FASHION NOW CALLS FOR FLARING SKIRT AND PAINTED FACE

Modified Leg-of-mutton Sleeve and Well-defined Waist Line London Decree

LONDON.—By The Associated Press.—Smartly dressed women of the future must wear "flare" skirts, modified leg-of-mutton sleeves, well-defined waist-lines, and must make up in "doll" fashion, according to London fashion experts. The "doll" make-up consists of a dash of red high on each cheekbone, and another dash in the middle of the forehead. This gives the fair wearer the appearance of a Dutch doll.

Skirts of the coming season, the London fashion judges have decreed, shall be so made that when the wearer walks the skirt will fill out like a balloon, but when she stands in repose her draperies will enfold her as in a sheaf. The ultra-long skirts, so much in vogue during the last season, will be abandoned. The new circular, "flare" skirts are shorter than those of last year.

With the return of the flare to the dress, the waist line, so long ignored by fashion, reasserts itself, and the effect produced by skirt draperies that flare is further accentuated by the tendency of the upper part of the dress, the blouse or corsage, to pouch slightly over the waist.

The leg-of-mutton sleeve, an old style in which the upper part is large and the wrist close fitting, has been brought back by some London dress-makers, and another effort to popularize the high collar is being made.

Olive green will be the predominant color this winter, say the fashion mentors, with an autumnal shade of brown as second favorite. Some dress-makers incline to soft Persian reds and vivid blues. Extraordinary embroideries, landscape, zoological and floral, according to choice, will, however, lighten up the browns and other more or less neutral colorings. An ornamental pond with swans and water-lilies and a background of rushes and trees, all worked in natural colorings, is not considered too flamboyant a decoration for some gowns.

Among the hats, big picture shapes, close-fitting toques, Hattie Bretton and tam-o-shanter shapes are among the most popular for the coming season. All hats will be worn well down on the head. The fashionable colors will be brown, black and Havana. Only trimmings are bright.

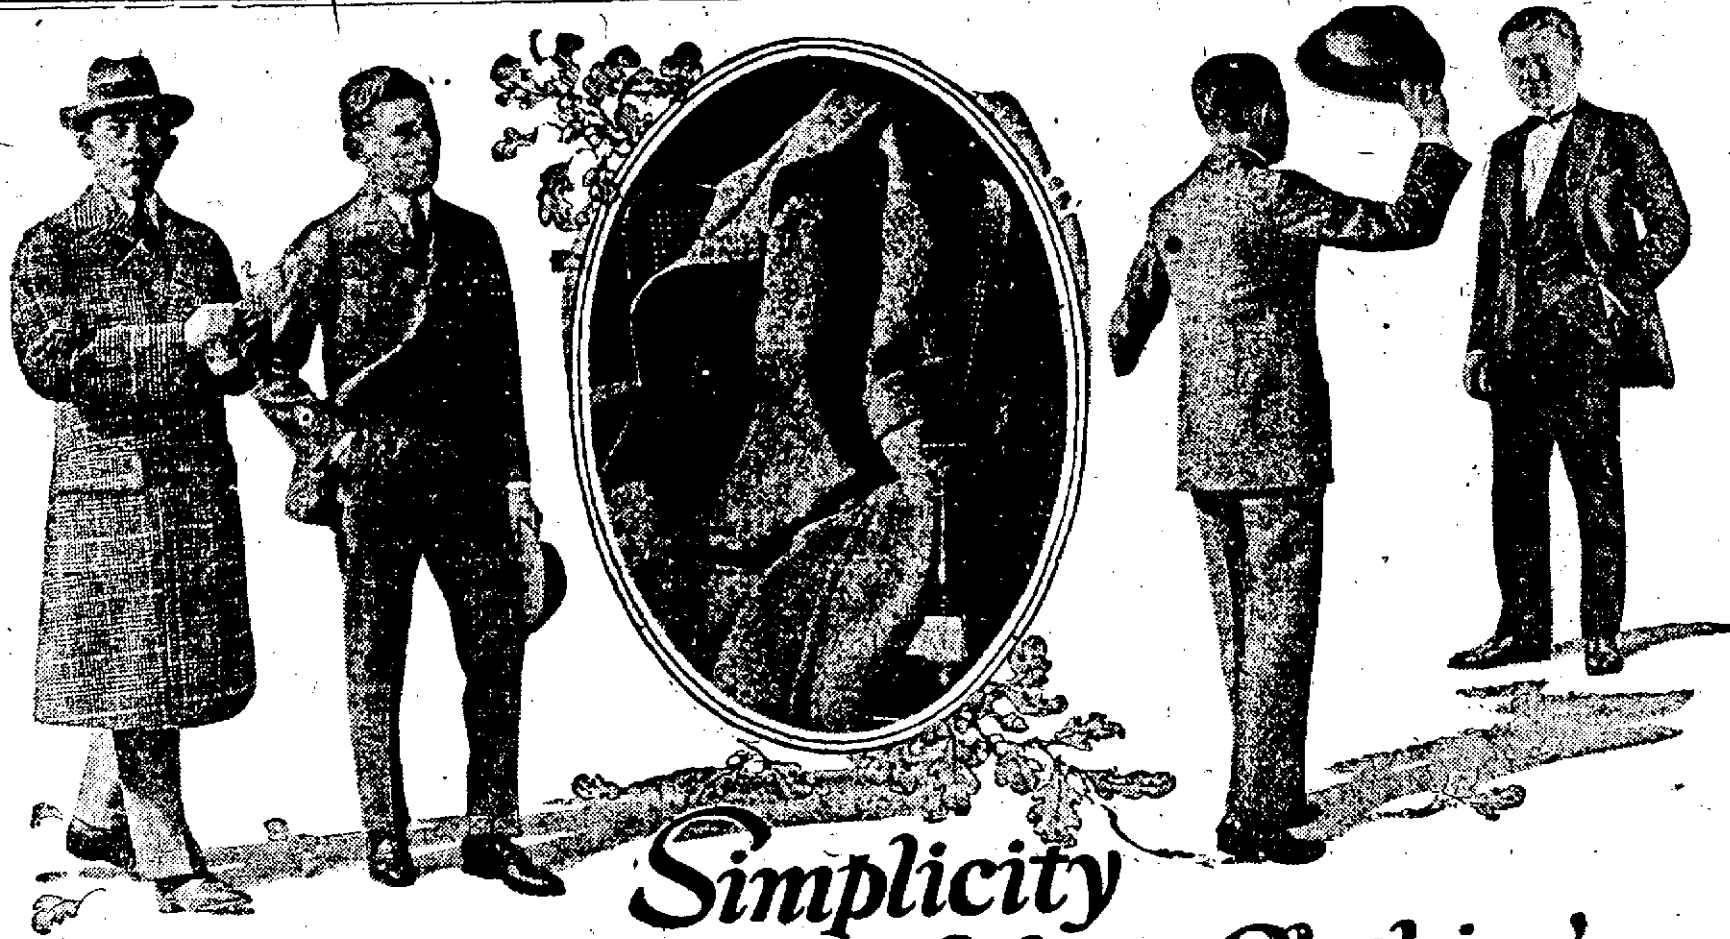

The new autumn and winter hats are made of moire, satin, panne, velvet, crepe satin and felt. They may be trimmed with ribbon, feathers, or rich tips, long ostrich plumes, or cock's feathers that sweep the neck.

There will be much black millinery, brightened by trimmings of silver, gold and gay colors, but trimming will not be overdone. Neatness is a foremost quality of modern millinery, but it may develop into hardness, and then a veil of soft ruffles, velvet or soft satin is a desirable corrective. Hats will not be light.

SAYS YOUNGER WIVES DO NOT KNOW HOW TO SHOP PROPERLY

FOND DU LAC, Wis.—The younger generation of housewives does not cook like our mothers did and does not know how to shop properly, is the opinion of A. H. Penske of Minneapolis, national president of the United Master Butchers of America, here to attend the convention of the Wisconsin Retail Market Men's association.

Mr. Penske says present day housewives want only the high priced cuts of meat because they are too busy with other things to prepare the cheaper and often more nutritious cuts.

Simplicity Still Rules in Men's Clothing

By John Magee

There will be no decided style departures in men's clothes this fall and winter. Simplicity and conservatism still rule supreme. While some of the lines may be a bit austere, there is a tendency to break away from them.

Novelties, outside of those usually found in sport clothes, will be seen very little during the coming months particularly in apparel for the well-dressed man. The jazz and rah rah models of the past two years are gradually becoming extinct, and once more the pendulum swings back to the plain and more dignified styles.

English Influence Noted
The three-button coat will be emphasized. This coat is of loose fitting proportions with low gorge, notch lapels, no flare and fitted snugly over the hips, with no vent in the back.

Whatever tendency toward extremeness in developed in the new English cut suits which will be worn more by the younger fellows than the more mature men. These will favor the soft roll front coats, with very wide lapels, broad shoulders, lower pockets. The front of the coat will be rounded off at the bottom.

Loose raglan effects and the large English type of ulsters are expected to share the limelight in the overcoat field this fall and winter. While helms were prominent last year, the tendency is to break away from this particular style, although there will be some half helmets.

Convertible Collars Favored
Many of the overcoats will have convertible collars and patch pockets; some will show plain backs and others will have winks and inverted plaits.

Among the styles the double-breasted appears to be most favored, but some of the better makers are showing smart, dapper single-breasted garments. These will be shown in topcoats as well as overcoats.

Manufacturers are returning to the practical ideas in fabric—fabrics that will look well and wear well, instead of the fluff, soft finished materials of recent years. The weaves will be firmer. While the softer goods made a better presentation, they failed to give the required wr.

In topcoats there is no radical changes in styles, but it's the tailoring that determines the quality.

Double-Breasted to Front

The double-breasted suit which has shown streaks of popularity in recent years promises to come out with a greater flourish than ever.

In the suits of this style, as well as other styles most waistcoats have blunt bottoms. The trousers will, in many cases, be pleated at the top and straight hanging from knee to bottom. The width of the bottom will be left entirely to personal preference.

No Need to Be Dyspeptic

If Stomach Bothers, Gets Gassy and Heavy, Sweeten and Lighten With Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets

One never grows too old to forget the delights of eating. And yet old people will sometimes play on these memories and bring on dyspeptic attacks even though the diet be simple. Every family should be supplied with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. From childhood to old age they daily overcome or prevent the distresses due to indigestion. They sweeten the stomach by giving it the alkaline effect as in health, they absorb the gases, they lift off the feeling of heaviness, they stop sour risings or heart burn, they actually assist in the digestion of food, and from all points of view are one of the most invaluable aids to health to be found. So, no matter what you eat, if your stomach rebels, always remember that a 60-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will keep your stomach sweet and thus aid to prevent much of the distress that comes late in life.

ence, but all will be cut liberally. In colors the natural tendency is toward the darker shades, as has been the case in past seasons. There will be shown some of the lighter shades but not to any great extent.

Stripes will be good again as they have been in past seasons, but with new shadow effects which will give a little variation. Check-stripes also will be shown, but most of these designs will be small and dignified.
